FIRST YEAR FOUNDATION & LIBERAL ARTS

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
FD100	First Year Seminar	This course is designed to help first year students make a successful transition to PNCA. Through presentations, hands-on projects, discussions, and field trips, students will develop the skills and habits to be successful in a new social and academic setting. Strong emphasis will be placed on building community and connecting students to resources that can enhance their studies and creative practices.	1
FD101	Visual Elements: 2D	This semester long course introduces students to the basic elements and principles of 2D design and color theory with an emphasis on compositional strategies and creative and conceptual thinking. Students will develop a stronger visual language for communicating their ideas through problem solving, materials exploration, and critical discussion. This course allows students to develop organizational control in visual structures, and to improve their ability to manage complex design problems in a variety of disciplines.	3
FD102	Visual Elements: Digital Tools	This semester long course introduces students to the fundamentals of digital imaging as a tool for design. Students develop the use of line, shape, value, mass, texture and pattern and learn to apply this knowledge to achieve certain effects: harmony, contrast, balance, symmetry, rhythm, movement, perspective and space illusion. These concepts will be explored through the three basic types of applications used in contemporary digital design: vector programs, raster (bitmapped) programs and to a lesser extent, page layout programs.	3
FD105	Basic Drawing	This semester long course focuses on the fundamental components of drawing. It will explore the use of line and value to create and manipulate form, volume, composition and space on paper. The underlying formal principles of drawing will be closely examined, and numerous mark making techniques employed. The structure of the course will guide the student through a process of seeing, investigating, and realizing the visible world on a two-dimensional surface. This course will also build on observational drawing skills through projects with expanded parameters. Issues and ideas that inform and influence the function of drawing and the decision-making process will also be discussed.	3
FD111	3-D Design	Three-dimensional design is a broad discipline and can be thought of in terms of sculpture, industrial design, architecture and the creation of any space. This course introduces the fundamentals of three-dimensional design techniques and concepts such as space, mass, form, volume, texture, material, and structure. Spatial problems are investigated through a variety of traditional and non-traditional materials and methods to develop skills, as well as contexts for their expression.	3
FD112	Time Arts	Time Arts introduces the concepts and practical study of space, sound and time as they relate to both sequential and non-sequential narration, movement, timing and interactivity. Students will work both individually and collaboratively to explore these concepts through a variety of media including video, sound, performance, books (flipbooks, comic books, artist books), and other narrative and non-narrative structures.	3
LA122	Writing in Context	This course provides a writing-based introduction to a particular field of study in the liberal arts, ranging from literature to political thought and from film to environmental studies. It is a reading-intensive course taught by Liberal Arts faculty of many disciplines, and draws on both the expertise of the instructor and a broad sampling of texts relevant to the course topic. Foundation Writing and Writing in Context classes introduce students to various approaches to textual interpretation, critical thinking, and writing. In both semesters, the instructors model and teach students how to use citations, appropriate and employ quotations, summarize text, and to build relevant bibliographies. Students learn to read critically, to discuss the material with classmates and with the instructor, to conduct relevant and documented research, and to shape and present informed ideas in a variety of writing formats that demonstrate clarity, coherence, intellectual force, and stylistic control.	3
AH125	Exploring Visual Culture	This introductory course explores the relationship between art, design, and our current global culture. We will look at varied examples of contemporary art and design in order to better understand the theories, methods, trends, and histories that shape the production and reception of art and design today. This course will generate ideas and vocabulary that will facilitate your ability to discuss your work and the work of others. It will foster an understanding of how your creative work fits into a larger social, historical, and cultural context.	3

ANIMATED ARTS

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
AA231	Animation I: Materials & Motion	The first of a two-semester sequence, this studio course will explore the relationship of sound and moving image from the frame-by-frame perspective of fine art animation. Students with diverse interests within and across, painting and drawing, sculpture, illustration, music, and performance will obtain a basic formal and conceptual knowledge of animation principles, cinematic vocabulary and experimental structures. Animation is investigated through projects, lecture/screenings on historical and contemporary works and ideas, discussion of readings, visiting artists, research and writing, hands-on experiences, and collaborative projects. In the first semester students will experiment with a variety of production methods and materials using LunchBox Sync and iStop Motion for capturing. Students will be encouraged to explore a range of alternative approaches to creating the illusion of movement as well as to see animation as a nuanced medium for self-expression across various media platforms that communicate within and outside the traditional movie house. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
AA232	Animation II: Hybrid Moving Image	The second of a two-semester sequence, this studio course expands on the frame-by-frame perspective and hybrid moving image making skills using digital software. Students with diverse interests within and across, painting and drawing, sculpture, illustration, music, and performance will obtain a basic formal and conceptual knowledge of animation principles, cinematic vocabulary and experimental structures. Animation is investigated through projects, lecture/screenings on historical and contemporary works and ideas, discussion of readings, visiting artists, research and writing, hands-on experiences, and collaborative projects. In the second semester students will apply principles of timing and pacing as they learn composite software: After Effects, Flash and Painter. Students will be encouraged to explore a range of alternative approaches to creating the illusion of movement as well as to see animation as a nuanced medium for self-expression across various media platforms that communicate within and outside the traditional movie house. Prerequisites: AA231.	3
AA235	Animated Arts Special Topics	Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum. Prerequisites: AA231-232.	3
AA236	Character and Identity	Character Design has its roots in industry animation where a fixed set of shapes allowed studios to employ any number of animators to work simultaneously. Character & Identity assumes audiences can relate to and engage with a character without the maker having to dilute or amplify to arrive at a superficial representation of a type. The course seeks to contrast the usual reductive approaches in thinking about "character" by investigating the pitfalls of classifying and stereotyping. With a starting focus on media literacy as a disruption to the usual introduction of "character," students will engage in a variety of research methods aimed at gathering specifics rather than generalizations to inform visual development. How can one use the typical character types as a departure point rather than a destination? How are the traditional ways of categorizing and developing character effective and in what ways do they fail to reflect the fluidity and complexity of humanity? With the goal of designing original characters, students will collect and assemble a personal visual reference library to support their findings and challenge their own preconceptions. Students will do field work where they would go out and actively study and document real people as a way of researching when developing their designs that seek out and celebrate specifics rather than generalizations. Students will conduct interviews with people and look for all the subtleties in selfpresentation, dress, cadences of speech and physical vocabulary as well as consider how people move in different spaces, bodies, and states of mind. Acting or improv segments and drawing from life will hone observational skills. Students will assemble a personal visual reference library to support their findings and challenge their own preconceptions. Prerequisites: Studio Foundation	3
AA237	Stop Motion	This course builds upon basic animation principles with a focus on the puppet/object as a character. Open to any student who completes the pre-requisite of Beginning Animated Arts I, this course introduces the camera and lighting and applies principles of animated motion to 3D objects and puppets utilizing various materials from paper cut-outs to ball & socket armatures. The practice and craft of Stop Motion animation is investigated through lecture-demonstrations, screenings of historical and contemporary works, visiting artists and industry professionals, and guided technical sessions in our stop motion suites. Throughout students will be encouraged to use animated movement: timing, pacing, and gesture to communicate a range of nuanced expressions that create visual narrative. The course culminates in an individual final project suitable for portfolio and reel. Beginning Animated Arts I	3

Crs#	Course Name Description	Credit
AA331	Animated Short Film Animated Short Film. This upper division hybrid media studio extends the principles of animation – the pacing of sequential images, the tension between stillness and movement, and the hybrid compositing practices that define digital filmmaking – in the creation of innovative, upper division work constructed from a frame-by-frame perspective. Animated Short Film - Topics include: digital film and hybrid moving image, gestures and languages of movement, rotoscoping and the loss of the index, and the architecture of animated space. The course is structured by individual and collaborative projects, critiques, lectures and screenings on historical and contemporary animated art forms, discussions of theoretical readings, research and writing, and field work to support in-depth investigations tied to non-traditional contexts, interdisciplinary investigations and a range of display platforms. Prerequisites: AA231	3
AA332	Animated Installation Animated Installation. This upper division studio course builds upon the principles of animation – while pushing the idea of 'screen' beyond the traditional single rectangular experience. Course topics address both concepts and production to include: experiencing spatial form/moving image in spaces, spectacle & poetics, and considerations for multi-channel projections. The course includes individual and collaborative projects, equipment demonstrations and hands-on technical experimenting, critiques, field trips, and lectures/screenings on historical and contemporary installations and projections. Students will be asked to participate and lead discussions of theoretical readings and engage in upper division practice-based research to support in-depth investigations leading to the creation of work designed for range of display platforms and audiences. Final projects will culminate in a public exhibition. Prerequisites: AA231.	3
AA333	Narrative Strategies This upper division course will investigate narrative construction, both implied and explicit, through the frame of literature, film and critical theory with a focus on understanding and developing animated narratives for short form platforms. Through applied exercises, lecture/screenings, critiques and discussions of readings, participants will explore how the particular language of animation can be used to create original and challenging work in single and multiple channels. Projects will address associative thinking, visualization, narrative events, event analysis, and structural processes with direct reference to traditional narrative forms, documentary and experimental practice. Through collaborative, provocative, and spirited investigations of a variety of historical and contemporary approaches, students will engage in advanced critical thinking as a means to investigate narrative structures and creative practice within moving image arts. Prerequisites: AA231-232.	3
AA335	Animated Arts Special Topics Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum. Prerequisites: AA231-232.	3

GRAPHIC DESIGN

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
DA151	Design Arts Freshman Elective	In Design Arts Foundation Studio students are introduced to the processes of illustration and Graphic Design. While both disciplines have distinct characteristics and functions, they are closely linked historically and in contemporary creative practice. This course offers students a strong technical and conceptual framework for a major in Graphic Design or Illustration. In weekly experimental studio sessions, students will explore various principles and methodologies from Graphic Design and illustration, exploring their intersections in contemporary client-based practice. Through incorporation of drawing, typography, painting, collage, and digital media, students will encounter new creative possibilities and find exposure to the dynamic opportunities available to the contemporary illustrator & designer.	3
GD241	Design Studio I: Signs	This course introduces the student to the structure of visual languages and how these structures are used consciously and unconsciously in design. The course begins by exploring modes of signification and the ideological roles of media in contemporary culture. Key strands in critical theory such as mythology and ideology will be introduced. Students will examine the transmission of meaning in our visual culture. In particular, students will be asked to judge for themselves the truth of old certainties relating to the techniques and the very purposes of Graphic Design. Computer skills and compositional skills will be stressed and enhanced. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
GD242	Design Studio I: Psychology of Seeing	This course focuses on the roles that human perception and cognition play in the world of design. As such this studio course examines the notion of locating the individual in the sphere of cultural production and consumption. The aim of the course is to discover how notions of the unconscious affect the decision-making patterns of consumers in our visual culture. Students are introduced to various psychological principles that facilitate our understanding of how humans are motivated to action or behavior in design and advertising. Technically, the course will rely heavily on page layout, color response, and typography. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
GD245	Typography I	Typographic skills and concepts are applied to situations involving the use of type in layout, illustration, and time-based applications. The emphasis is not only on style and composition, but also on formal and semantic issues as these are influenced by project function and technological criteria. Students will be able to understand the history and evolution of typography, and to discuss and analyze the physical aspects and nuances of type and typographic measurements. Some key concepts in type design will be explored as well. Projects will explore a variety of solutions to design problems that require both expressiveness as well as an understanding of the practical uses of type in Graphic Design. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
GD246	Typography II	Typography II is a continuation of systems and ideas explored initially in Typography I. This course includes historical and contemporary lectures mixed with studio time for experimentation, research, and personal application of concepts. This course is intended to give you a further understanding and appreciation of type as a tool for the designer. During this course, typographic skills and concepts are applied to situations involving the use of type in digital and manual applications. Prerequisites: GD241 and GD245.	3
GD247	Production	This course provides an understanding of the scope and correlation of design, pre-press preparation and the production process. Fundamentals of computer hardware/software management and the importance of time management and project planning will be stressed. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
GD251	Fundamentals of Interactive Media	Fundamentals of Interactive Media is first in the series of two interactive design courses, is offered in the Spring semester, and is required for GD students. This course serves as an introduction to interactive design with user experience and user interface methodologies. Basic principles of design for digital platforms are discussed, as well as interaction design concepts such as app/web, augmented and virtual reality, ocular/voice recognition, environmental/experience design, etc. Students will develop the background needed to understand how audio, video, animation and motion graphics affect user interaction and experience within digital media. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
GD310	GD Design Special Topics	Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum.	3
GD341	Design Studio II: Culture and Audience	This course begins to prepare the student for understanding the audience that design always addresses. As a means to understand audience, we investigate where that is found - a cultural context. Borrowing ideas from anthropology and political economy, students explore Graphic Design from the perspective of total communication - from the larger issues confronting a society to the discreet objects and messages contained therein. Projects include identity and collateral, produce and brand development, as well as publication design. Prerequisites: GD 241-242, GD 245 and GD 246, or Instructor permission.	3

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
GD342	Design Studio II: Rhetoric & Persuasion	The use of Graphic Design in shaping history, scholarly discourse, the media and even genres such as film and literature, seems transparent. This class will link to the traditional aims of rhetoric (developing a good argument), with becoming a perceptive interpreter. We will investigate the integral role of building solid visual arguments and developing the rhetorical skills to defend a position. Students will be asked to develop an argument on a complex issue and advance that argument through the use of design media such as posters, websites, billboards, etc. Prerequisites: GD241-242, GD245, GD246 and GD341, or Instructor permission.	3
GD344	Marketing & Branding	This class is an overview of basic marketing principles and their relevance to the advertising art director and Graphic Designer. Students will be exposed to product development, pricing, distribution and promotion, merchandising and public relations in consumer and industrial markets and comparing various media, their selection and use. Prerequisites: LA121-122 and GD241-242, or Instructor permission.	3
GD350	Interface & Structure	This course serves as an introduction to front-end design and development. Students will cultivate their developmental abilities for the web by focusing on the core technical languages of HTML and CSS. Exploration of current web trends, techniques, and best practices will be emphasized with special attention paid to the role of the modern day professional as a hinge position between aesthetic sensitivity and programmatic rigor. Prerequisites: GD241-242, GD251 or Instructor permission.	3
GD351	Motion Graphics	This final course in the web sequence explores the conceptual mash up of art direction and heuristics, visual affordance, narrative, technology, and data. Production values will be stressed and usability concerns will be addressed. Students will create desire with interactive design following the constructs unique to the digital medium and investigate parallels in other design sectors. A variety of design techniques will be taught to challenge aesthetic approaches. Students will become versed in technology, and explore dynamics of project collaboration, client relationships, and principle driven design. Prerequisites: GD241-242, GD251, GD350 or consent of instructor.	3
GD410	Graphic Design Special Topics	Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum. Prerequisites: Senior standing or Instructor permission.	3
GD443	Graphic Design Advanced Studio	Running concurrently with the Practicum and Thesis, students use the opportunity to share their experiences, projects and evaluations. This exchange of information and insight benefits all class members. Prerequisite: Senior standing.	3
GD444	Graphic Design Advanced Studio	Running concurrently with the Practicum and Senior Project, students use the opportunity to share their experiences, projects and evaluations. This exchange of information and insight benefits all class members. Prerequisite: Senior standing.	3

ILLUSTRATION

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
DA151	Design Arts Freshman Elective	In Design Arts Foundation Studio students are introduced to the processes of illustration and Graphic Design. While both disciplines have distinct characteristics and functions, they are closely linked historically and in contemporary creative practice. This course offers students a strong technical and conceptual framework for a major in Graphic Design or Illustration In weekly experimental studio sessions, students will explore various principles and methodologies from Graphic Design and illustration, exploring their intersections in contemporary client-based practice. Through incorporation of drawing, typography, painting, collage, and digital media, students will encounter new creative possibilities and find exposure to the dynamic opportunities available to the contemporary illustrator & designer	3
IL251	Word & Image	This course provides an introduction to the verbal/visual relationship of the illustrator's creative process. Students will gain an understanding of the history of illustration as it relates to the contemporary marketplace and the key practitioners of the art form. Self-expression and experimentation are placed within the context of illuminating information through pictures and symbols. Prerequisite: All Foundation studio courses.	3
IL252	Visual Techniques	Illustration is an art of illuminating ideas. This course provides the groundwork for developing the ability to communicate effectively through image content. Multiple ways of expressing a visual solution are investigated while working with a variety of contemporary and historical themes and ideas. In addition to the student gaining the conceptual skills needed as an illustrator, technical skills and processes in a number of key media areas will be explored and developed. Prerequisite: IL251.	3
IL253	Painting for Illustration	This is a painting class. This class explores the possibilities for self-expression and story-telling with color and composition. Students will build on their knowledge of color theory and composition gained in the Foundation classes, further exploring color systems and how color and texture can be used as compositional elements. Students will gain techniques and knowledge of mediums used with watercolor and acrylic paint. The first part of this class will focus on correct color mixing and understanding of formal elements of composition. In the second part, students will be asked to apply that understanding by manipulating the color and compositional elements in front of them to achieve different effects. The final part of this course is an independent final project proposed by the student, giving him/her an opportunity to apply the skills and techniques learned over the semester to their own choice of subject matter and conceptual content.	3
IL254	Digital Media Strategies 1	This class explores modes of digital-image making, placing an emphasis on integrating analog and digital illustration processes, working between multiple image-making platforms and applications that incorporate both raster and vector thinking with the goal of developing unique and original processes that stretch the limits of the programs. Multiple ways of expressing a visual solution are investigated through a combination of analog techniques (i.e. drawing, painting, composition, perspective, light, value, and color) and digital tools (i.e. Adobe Photoshop and Illustrator). Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
IL255	Drawing for Illustration	This course builds upon basic drawing skills to extend technical and conceptual range. Differing from Experiments in Drawing, in that it is directed primarily towards the practice and consolidation of observational drawing. These tools include analytical seeing, gesture, measuring, value/volume, linear perspective, composition and varied mark making. This course is intent on tackling varying traditional and non-traditional tactile media less GDonly explored in the painting curriculum. Each semester will begin with simple vine charcoal and pencil extending to other media such as watercolor, gouache, pastel, oil pastel, conte and colored pencils. Since each semester highlights a different medium or type of media, this course may be taken singly or out of sequence. This course includes supervised studio work and working from live models, critiques aimed at strengthening compositional skills by examining the coherence of the effects within each composition, possible field trips to outside exhibits or off-campus drawing sites. Work outside of class will be assigned to build skills rehearsed in class. Prerequisite: All Foundation studio courses.	3
IL256	Digital Media Strategies 2	This course will explore advanced digital image making methodologies in the vector-based application Adobe Illustrator and raster-based application Photoshop, as well as Procreate and Clip Studio. Students will be exposed to a broad range of digital and analog image-making techniques with an emphasis on shape-based image building processes, design thinking, collaborative ideation, and ultimately starting to develop individual voice, style, and workflow through digital and analog experimentation. This class will serve as a project incubator and focusing on student driven projects and strategic design solutions. Digital production, printing techniques (both analog and digital), and file management will also be covered. Prerequisites: DMS 1	3
IL257	Illustration: Special Topics	Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum.	3

ILLUSTRATION (cont.)

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
IL351	Visual Vocabulary	A mature, well-developed personal vision is central to the contemporary illustrators practice. This course focuses on the development of a personal artistic voice - bridging the gap between the boundaries of the commercial marketplace and the highly personal act of making art. In this course, the student will interact with a dynamic variety of themes placed in the context of art direction and time constraints. Refining the highly relational creative process of concept sketch to finished art will be stressed. Prerequisite: IL251 Word and Image, IL254 DMS:Photoshop, IL255 Drawing for Illustration or permission of Dept. Head.	3
IL352	Cultural Marketplace	Contemporary culture and the illustration marketplace are fluid and ever changing. It is essential that today's illustrator is equipped to function within this dynamic and competitive landscape. This course takes the student into the current marketplace, exploring each of the key areas of creative opportunity including digital media, games, entertainment, editorial, publishing, advertising, and product development. Each student, while continuing the development of a personal artistic vision, will investigate projects relating to the professional marketplace. Prerequisite: IL251 Word and Image, IL254 DMS:Photoshop, IL255 Drawing for Illustration or permission of Dept. Head.	3
IL354	Design + Image	In Design + Image students will engage in the vital disciplinary crossover between illustration and Graphic Design. Through incorporation of drawing, painting, photography, typography, and digital media, students will encounter the countless creative possibilities that hybrid techniques make available to the contemporary illustrator. The class will place special emphasis on the practice of fusing the compositional and conceptual elements of an image. In the end, students should appreciate why Illustrators who understand design are far more likely to create powerfully resonant, compelling images than those who do not. Prerequisite: IL251 Word and Image, IL254 DMS:Photoshop, IL255 Drawing for Illustration or permission of Dept. Head.	3
IL356	Narrative Image	This course sets the work of the visual artist in an enriching context of writing, ideas and story. The course combines writing, reading and illustration in order to explore the confluence of visual and verbal art, while addressing the need for the modern illustrator to be a multi-dimensional GDUicator with a strong personal vision. The two disciplines inform and augment each other in bifocal artistic practice. The graphic novel will be explored as a pertinent example of how these skills can work in concert. Through a process of self-expression and experimentation, students are encouraged to develop their own visual vocabulary by studying the work of writers and artists, and practicing personal creation in both realms. Some technical skills will be addressed including reading comprehension, grammar and the writing process. Students will gain fluency in using writing to discover and articulate visual tropes and using images to sharpen, deepen and refine their writing. Prerequisite: IL251 and IL252.	3
IL357	Graphic Novel	This course introduces the fundamentals of visual storytelling in the medium of comics and then builds on that foundation through process and experimentation. The course will have a strong focus on three core elements: 1.) Developing and telling a strong story, 2.) Process and creative problem solving 3.) Having the following elements - concept, drawing, design, staging, pacing, and acting - come together in a cohesive way to serve that story. By focusing on a series of smaller narratives, students will develop their storytelling skills, as well as their own narrative voice. They will learn that how one tells a story can be as unique and stylistic as the image or the writing. Practical considerations such as designing and drawing for black and white, the final product, publishing, and professional practices will also be addressed. Prerequisite: IL251-252 or Junior level standing.	3
IL358	Illustration: Special Topics	Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum. Junior Level.	3
IL450	Illustration Advanced Studio I	The advanced studio allows the senior student to apply technical skill and an understanding of the contemporary marketplace to the creation of a body of work related to their own personal vision. Professional work processes will be employed and art direction will be central to this creative process as each student begins the creation of professional level projects related to their chosen area of focus. This 16 week studio course works in close proximity with the Illustration Senior Project, allowing for a broader context leading towards a completed senior portfolio. Prerequisite: Senior standing.	3
IL451	Illustration Advanced Studio II	The advanced studio allows the senior student to apply technical skill and an understanding of the contemporary marketplace to the creation of a body of work related to their own personal vision. Professional work processes will be employed and art direction will be central to this creative process as each student begins the creation of professional level projects related to their chosen area of focus. This 16 week studio course works in close proximity with the Illustration Senior Project, allowing for a broader context leading towards a completed senior portfolio. Prerequisite: Senior standing.	3

INTERMEDIA

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
IM201	Theory & Practice	Theory & Practice classes are interdisciplinary, research oriented studio courses that foster an idea-based, non-media specific inquiry focusing on concerns within and outside the visual arts Prerequisite: Foundation studio courses and LA122, LA125. Courses offered under this Course #: Theory & Practice: Art in Context - This studio-based, media blind seminar introduces conceptual and theoretical concerns within the context of contemporary creative practice. Topics explored include language and semiotics, appropriation, simulation, systems and networks, collaboration, relational practices, and deconstruction. Through projects, critiques, lectures on contemporary art and ideas, discussions of readings, research and writing, visiting artists, and field trips, students produce studio work utilizing conceptual strategies tied to diverse roles that artists play within contemporary art and creative practice. Minor in Art & Ecology required course: Theory & Practice: Global Culture and Ecology This studio-based, media blind seminar examines climate change and other global issues in order to form a foundational understanding of ecological principles, contemporary global society, and the complex ways that they interact. Students will explore new models of social awareness and cultural production and learn from how artists and designers are already responding in creative ways to social and ecological issues. Through projects, critiques, lectures, discussions of readings, research and writing, visiting artists, and field trips, students will produce studio work reflecting these pressing issues. Prerequisite: Foundation studio courses and LA122, LA125.	3
IM251	Performance	This hybrid media studio course will explore a diverse range of strategies in identifying, creating and activating a site through expanded performative actions. Basic skills tied to intended gesture, incidental movement, stillness, repetition, fracture/rupture, prop and site manipulation, voice, language and sound will be the topics and actions explored during this course. Emphasis will be placed on the active, deployed body so a great deal of the course will involve physically engaged solo and collaborative workshops, exercises and activities. Historical precedents and the work of contemporary practitioners will give the student a deeper understanding of the discipline. This exposure coupled with research, projects, critique, proposal development, scoring and scripting techniques, visiting artists, readings, attending performances, and video /film screenings will give the student the primary tools and conceptual strategies to successfully develop performative work. Engagement with PICA's annual TBA festival will give the students exposure to top contemporary time based artists and potential collaborative opportunities with these visiting artists. Prerequisite: All Foundation Studio courses.	3
IM253	Intermedia Special Topics	Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum.	3
IM301	Theory & Practice	Theory & Practice classes are interdisciplinary, research oriented studio courses that foster an idea-based, non-media specific inquiry focusing on concerns within and outside the visual arts. Titles have included: Art & Anthropology, Art and the Everyday, Body Politics, Art - Ethics & Transgression, Utopia/Dystopia, Homeland. Prerequisite: IM201.	3
IM351	Intermedia Studio	Intermediate level Intermedia courses - including: Hybrid Painting, Offsite Projects, Screen+Devices, Video Installation, other upper-division hybrid studio courses are offered on a rotational basis. Topics include collaboration, video and sound in non-traditional environments, conceptual work and more involved installation applications. Prerequisite: Junior level standing.	3

PAINTING

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
DR261	The Figure	This is a drawing class that takes as its subject the human form, generally nude but at times draped. As such, it combines rigorous drawing instruction and practice to develop students' formal expressive capacities along with an investigation of ideas that naturally come to bear on art that concerns itself directly with representation of humankind. Class discussions and assignments will reflect this dual approach to the figure. Most class time will be spent in drawing, but you may expect frequent short lectures on specific artists and issues, and are encouraged to ask questions and participate in discussions. Prerequisite: All Foundation studio courses or permission of the instructor.	3
DR265	Drawing Studio:Techniques & Applications	Drawing Studio:Techniques and Applications. This course builds upon basic drawing skills to extend technical and conceptual range. This course is directed primarily towards the practice of observational drawing, relying on analytical seeing, gesture, measuring, value/volume, linear perspective, composition and varied mark making. Beginning with simple vine charcoal and pencil, the course extends to a range of other drawing media such as watercolor, gouache, pastel, oil pastel, conte and colored pencils. Each semester may emphasize different media or types of media, depending upon the individual expertise of instructors. This course includes supervised studio work and working from live models, critiques aimed at strengthening compositional skills by examining the coherence of the effects within each composition, possible field trips to outside exhibits or off-campus drawing site. Prerequisite: All Foundation studio courses or permission of the instructor.	3
DR266	Drawing Studio: Image in Context	Drawing Studio: Image in Context. While this course is designed to improve both perceptual and conceptual skills the primary emphasis is on experimentation with materials and strategies for invention. Problems are structured around a variety of spatial concepts, subject matters, materials and methods for image generation and supported with examples of contemporary and historical artwork. Critiques are structured around both visual coherence and engagement with subjects or concepts under consideration. Prerequisite: All Foundation studio courses or permission of instructor.	3
DR267	Anatomy	Anatomy:Skeletal Structure. This is a one-semester course in anatomy designed to strengthen your ability to represent the human figure in art. It begins with a close examination of the skeleton, followed by an introduction to the mechanics of movement and musculature, plus a survey of the main muscle groups. Each week includes a lecture-demonstration using skeletons, charts, live models and our own bodies, followed by drawing from the live model, and three outside hours of drawing using notes, memory and your imagination. Very hard; lots of fun. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses or permission of the instructor.	3
DR361	Advanced Figure	Advanced Figure. This course is the advanced sequel to DR261 The Figure. As such it aims toward significant mastery of representation and interpretation of the human figure in drawing. Students receive advanced instruction in formal and expressive drawing within the context of contemporary artistic practice. The course is structured around hands-on drawing but includes presentations on contemporary and historical figurative art along with short independent projects. Prerequisite DR261 or permission of the instructor.	3
DR363	Drawing Seminar:Mediated Image	Drawing Seminar:Mediated Image. The intent of this course is to introduce historical, technical and conceptual frameworks to help support individual investigations through drawing practice. As a tool of creative exploration, drawing informs visual discovery and envisions the development of perceptions and ideas. This is an advanced level drawing course for students who are interested in developing a self-directed, sustained body of work and an understanding of the relationships between the formal and conceptual aspects of drawing practice. All work is developed outside the classroom and supported in the classroom by individual and group critiques, guest critiques, written proposals, and readings. Prerequisites: DR261 or DR265 or DR266 or DR267.	3
DR364	Drawing Seminar: Systems, Strategies, and Structures	Drawing Seminar: Systems, Strategies, and Structures. The history of drawing predated written language and remains a fundamental means to translate, document, record and analyze our thoughts and observations to ourselves and others. Contemporary drawing practice may be transitory and temporal or provide a record of archival permanence. It may be propositional, preparatory, visionary, imaginative, associative, factual, generative, transforming or performative in nature as a tool of investigation for the realization and transference of ideas. At its best the means of making is harnessed to the realization of ideas and concepts. To that end student will engage in a variety of strategies and means to explore and express their ideas through drawing. Prerequisite: DR261 or DR265 or DR266 or DR267.	3
PA261	Painting Studio:Materials & Methods	Painting Studio:Materials & Methods. The Painting program builds on Foundation skills of drawing, design, color theory and critical discourse. Projects focus on the materials and methods of traditional oil painting while exploring a variety of subjects and pictorial strategies. Emphasis is on the development of core skills in the discipline, knowledge of contemporary and historical work as well as critical judgment and presentation. Prerequisite: All Foundation studio courses, or permission of the instructor.	3

PA262	Painting Std: Techniques & Painting Studio: Techniques and Applications. The second semester of the Painting Studio program is meant to help you consolidate the paint-handling skills introduced in Materials and Methods and extend the range of painting approaches you undertake. Problems assigned may involve representation or abstraction or both, and may require working from direct observation, memory or imagination, or all three. As in the first semester, class problems will be considered in the context of related work by historical and contemporary masters, and we will also work on refining your ability to describe and analyze your own work and that of others in critique. Students may be called upon to work in oils or acrylics, according to the preference of the instructor. Prerequisite: PA261 or permission of the instructor.	3
PA266	Observational Painting This course is intended to provide the student with a variety of opportunities to expand and refine their skill in a realist manner by painting from direct observation. From "Plein Air" to "in-studio" practice, on subjects such as Landscape, the Figure, Portrait and Still Life, we will focus on creating work that is technically skilled and of strong pictorial construction. To this end, Drawing and preliminary studies are a few of the tools we will use as well as lectures, Gallery visits and "on site" demonstrations. Perspective, rendering in atmospheric color, color saturation, underpainting and glazing techniques are also things that will be important components of our class. For the most part we will be creating one painting each session however a few subjects such as the Figure and the Portrait will require an additional week. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
PADR361	Paint & Drw Studio: Self-Directed Painting and Drawing Studio: Self-Directed. This is the first in a two-course sequence of self-directed study in the Junior year. It aims to begin development of both studio discipline and a professional approach to artistic practice. After an initial project assigned by the professor, Students will be expected to articulate their aims and interests in a written proposal which will form the basis of the semester's work. This proposal will be developed with the assistance of the professor and should be specific enough to provide appropriate structure but with sufficient leeway for development and change. Students may work in drawing, painting, or some combination of these or other media. Progress in the course will be supported by individual instruction, short lectures, visiting artists, gallery visits, appropriate library and other research resources, and group discussion.	3
PADR362	Painting and Drawing Studio: Pre-Thesis Painting and Drawing Studio: Pre-Thesis. This course directly precedes the Thesis and as such can be seen as a preparatory course for transition to entirely independent work in the Senior year. It aims to develop both studio discipline and a professional approach to artistic practice. Students will be expected to articulate their aims and interests in a written proposal which will form the basis of the semester's work. This proposal will be developed with the assistance of the professor and should be specific enough to provide appropriate structure but with sufficient leeway for development and change. Students may work in drawing, painting, or some combination of these or other media. Progress in the course will be supported by individual instruction, short lectures, visiting artists, gallery visits, appropriate library and other research resources, and group discussion.	3
PADR365	Special Topics Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum.	3

PHOTOGRAPHY

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
PH265	Introduction to the Photographic Image	Introduction to the Photographic Image is a class that explores multiple paths by which to generate, manipulate and interrogate photographic content and pursue the wide array of platforms on which photographic images are experienced (i.e. paper, screen, and object). The expansive definition of a camera will be investigated through the use of iPhones, scanners, video cameras, photograms, and digital negatives as tools for creating photographic images. Skills taught will include digital SLR manual camera functions, an introduction to darkroom processes, and basic Adobe Lightroom workflow. Assignments, lectures and readings will provide a comprehensive overview of the photographic image in the media and art world and will challenge students to interrogate photography as they know it.	3
PH272	Concept / Capture / Print I	This studio course examines every step of the photographic workflow, encouraging students to align formal choices related to composition, exposure, editing and presentation with their conceptual intent. Using both digital SLR and medium format film cameras, students will scan film and import RAW files, using Adobe Lightroom and Photoshop as processing tools. Technical instruction will focus on manual camera functions, shooting with available light, simple modifiers and fill flash, custom white balancing, retouching, post-production digital manipulations, and large format inkjet printing. Conceptual development will be emphasized and students will practice articulating ideas verbally and visually, creating coherent bodies of work based on assignments. Through readings and lectures, students will be exposed to contemporary photographic practices and theories. Prerequisite: FD102 Visual Elements: Digital Tools	3
PH273	Studio Lighting Essentials	Studio Lighting Essentials teaches lighting techniques both in and out of the studio that can be applied to the practices of students working in various mediums from photography to animation to video. Students will learn to work with continuous tungsten lights as well as off camera strobe speed lights in a variety of situations using modifiers and grip equipment. Understanding light on form, shadows and lighting ratios are concepts that will be covered, as well as color management and digital workflow using digital SLR cameras. Assignments, readings and lectures will expose students to contemporary and historic photographic lighting techniques in both fine art and commercial contexts. Prerequisites: FD102 Visual Elements Digital Tools, FD102 Visual Elements 2D	3
PH274	Photographic Investigations	Photographic Investigations is a class that allows students the opportunity to explore a specific application of the photographic medium and participate in rich dialogue around historic and contemporary approaches. Topics for investigation are offered on rotation and include: Alternative Processes: Introduces students to a variety of alternative photographic processes as a means to artistic expression with a focus on contemporary concerns. Students will experiment with antique photo processes as well as newer imaging technologies, interfacing the traditional with digital advances. Analog Practices: A darkroom based class focused on analog black and white photography in which students will learn film exposure, camera functions, darkroom processes, and the use of natural and available light. Fashion Photography: Explores themes of fashion photography in contemporary artistic as well as commercial contexts. Skills taught include considerations of concept, pre-production, set design, styling, lighting, post production, model contracts, and other professional practice elements of the industry. Product Photography: Explores language and aesthetics of advertising photography and its dialogue with fine art photography. Skills taught include? ?concept, set design, lighting strategies, capture and post production, client contracts, and other professional practice elements of the industry. Documentary Photography: ?Investigates the history of documentary photography while working with assignments that push students to ask questions of ethics, practice and aesthetics in their own work.	4

PHOTOGRAPHY (cont.)

Crs#	Course Name Description	Credit
PH371	Photographic Practice & Research In this course students work on a term-long project using the 4x5 view camera. One on one meetings with the instructor and in-progress critiques will give students feedback on their work throughout the term. Weekly readings and class discussions will cover photographic criticism and theory from the 1920's to today. Prerequisite: All Foundation studio courses, PH272, PH273 and one other 200 level photography class.	3
PH372	Photographic in Contemporary Art This course investigates contemporary photographic ways of seeing and creating, exploring work that expands beyond the boundaries of the photographic print. This class is about experimentation and students are expected to take risks, producing work that challenges their normal mode of art-making. There is an emphasis on critical theory and students are urged to make connections between their studio practice and critical literary knowledge. Weekly readings and discussions will inform the work and aid students in placing their work in a historical context.	3
PH374	Studio Lighting As a continuation of PH273 Lighting Essentials, this course will focus on the manipulation and control of photographic lighting to align with conceptual intent. Students will work with strobe light kits and a wide range of modifiers and grip equipment both in and out of the studio. They will practice mixing available light, tungsten and flash in complex lighting scenarios while using both digital and medium format film cameras. Professional practice will be taught through consideration of scenarios that involve working with clients, drawing up contracts and collaborating in groups. Assignments, readings and lectures will expose students to contemporary and historic photographic lighting techniques in both fine art and commercial contexts. Prerequisite: PH273, PH272	3
PH375	Concept / Capture / Print II As a continuation of PH272 Concept / Capture / Print I, this course will focus on aligning formal choices in capture, post-production and print processes with conceptual intent. An advanced investigation of digital capture, Adobe Photoshop, Lightroom, color management and digital workflow will be pursued as we examine the whats and whys of industry standards and learn a wide range of professional approaches to post-production editing. Through written project proposals, readings, and lectures students will be encouraged to develop their practice in relation to contemporary issues in fine art photography. Professional practice is integrated into the class through field trips to photography studios, discussion of marketing strategies and a final project that centers around the presentation of a body of work in book format. Prerequisite: All Foundation studio courses, PH272 or Instructor consent.	3

PRINTMAKING

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
PR281	Intaglio + Relief	This beginning printmaking course introduces intaglio and relief printing techniques within an active, hands-on studio experience. With a keen eye towards craft, composition, concept and engagement, this course explores the unique and varied visual effects and pragmatic considerations of copperplate intaglio and relief printing. Intaglio processes will include drypoint, hard ground and soft ground techniques on copper plates. The developing, working, and reworking of plates will be supported through step etching and scraping and burnishing. Relief printing techniques will include components of both Japanese and Western carving, inking, and printing traditions. Linoleum and woodcut printing will be covered in single and multiple blocks. Image and mark-making, line and value, strategies of layering, and composition are discussed and developed in both techniques. Current and historical applications of intaglio and relief printing for artists and designers will be a focus during the course. A program of demonstrations, lectures, in-class projects, readings & discussions, visiting artists, and individual & group critiques will support student exploration. 12 student capacity. Prerequisites: Foundations 2-Design and/or Basic Drawing	3
PR282	Screen + Lithography	This beginning printmaking course introduces screen- and lithography-printing techniques within an active, hands-on studio experience. With a keen eye towards craft, composition, concept and engagement, this course explores the unique and varied visual effects and pragmatic considerations of screenprinting and lithography printing. Screenprinting techniques will include hand-made, digital, and drawn stencils, as well as direct-to-screen and photo-processes. Lithography printing techniques will include drawing and printing directly from lithography stones, and the photographic capabilities of plate lithography. Image and markmaking, color interaction, strategies of layering, and composition are discussed and developed in both techniques. Current and historical applications of lithography and screenprinting for artists and designers will be a focus during the course. A program of demonstrations, lectures, in-class projects, readings & discussions, visiting artists, and individual & group critiques will support student exploration. 12 student capacity Prerequisites: Foundations 2-Design and/or Basic Drawing	3
PR286	Letterpress + Book	Letterpress + Book. This beginning printmaking course introduces letterpress & book-making techniques within an active, hands-on studio experience. With a keen eye towards craft, composition, concept and engagement, this course explores the ways that letterpress and books can function separately or interact. Letterpress techniques will focus on myriad applications of the typesetting and printing of lead & wood type, photopolymer plates, and other image-making processes. Traditional and non-traditional bookbinding will be introduced, including sewn and adhesive bindings. Alongside technical concerns, this course introduces the historical and contemporary considerations of print, paper & book culture as well as sequencing, narrative, typography, and the relationship between text and image. Current applications in letterpress and book for artists and designers, as well as how we read prints, texts and books, will be a focus during the course. A program of demonstrations, lectures, in-class projects, readings & discussions, visiting artists, and individual & group critiques will support student exploration.	3
PR289	Printmaking: Special Topics	Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum.	3

PRINTMAKING (cont.)

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
PR370	Printstallation	PR370 Printstallation Printstallation is an intermediate printmaking course that examines the role of printed matter in and as installation. Students will utilize and expand upon techniques gained in beginning printmaking classes while completing print-based installation projects. This course encompasses all methods of printed media and students are encouraged to employ multiple techniques and strategies. Print-based installation through accumulation & scale, print's interaction with other media & forms, prints as objects, and the active role of printed take-aways will all be considered. Strategies around site specificity, temporality, interactivity, immersion, and distribution are also integral to this course. Historical and contemporary artists working in print-based installation will be viewed and discussed. A program of demonstrations, lectures, in-class projects, readings & discussions, visiting artists, and individual & group critiques will support student exploration. Prerequisites: at least one 200-level printmaking class, two or more strongly encouraged	3
PR371	Print Studio	PR371 Print Studio Print Studio is an intermediate printmaking course where students can focus on and refine one or two printmaking techniques – honing technical skills and expanding knowledge around craft, materials, and processes. Self-directed projects that employ printmaking toward personal, idiosyncratic voice and vision are supported by faculty and peers in this studio course. Building off of skills learned in beginning printmaking classes, students will propose and focus on extended projects, ideas, and print processes. Skills in professional writing, research, presentation, documentation, and exhibition will also be supported. This course is ideal for students wishing to gain a greater depth of knowledge in specific printmaking traditions while creating a focused body of work. A program of demonstrations, lectures, in-class projects, readings & discussions, visiting artists, and individual & group critiques will support student exploration. Prerequisites: at least one 200-level printmaking class, two or more strongly encouraged	3
PR372	Printing on Fabric	PR372 Printing on Fabric - Printing on Fabric, an intermediate printmaking course, primarily focuses on screenprinting on fabric, but will also cover relief printing, intaglio, pochoir, and some small-batch fabric dyeing. Utilizing and expanding upon techniques gained in beginning printmaking classes, students will learn how to successfully print on fabric. Students will employ their printed fabric in multiple ways while utilizing strategies of apparel/wearables, interior design, sculpture and installation. Pattern repeats, non-repeating imagery, and printing on yardage will all be covered alongside printing on previously sewn textiles. Historical and contemporary artists/designers working in and with printed textiles will be viewed and discussed. A program of demonstrations, lectures, in-class projects, readings & discussions, visiting artists, and individual & group critiques will support student exploration. Prerequisite: 200-level Screenprint is required, 200-level Relief and/or Intaglio are recommended.	3
PR385	Experiments in Combined Print Media	Experiments in Combined Print Media is an intermediate print course that focuses on strategies for creating work that combines traditional and non-traditional print based media and a wide range of image sources. In addition, students will explore ways of combining print media with non-printed media, three-dimensional objects, and time-based media. The work created in this course requests openness to the possibility of how printed media can function from a framed image on a wall to a wide variety of contexts. In addition to assigned projects and recommended readings, there will be critiques, image lectures on related work with an emphasis on contemporary practice and context. Prerequisite: Minimum of two 200 level Print studio courses or permission of instructor. This course also fulfills the Junior interdisciplinary Intermedia requirement.	3
PR389	Printmaking:Special Topics	Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum. Prerequisite: Senior standing or permission of Department Chair.	3

SCULPTURE

Crs#	Course Name Description	Credit
SC291 / SC391	Sculpture I & Sculpture II Sculpture I and II Courses Courses These courses are offered at a 200 or 300 level with the different learning outcomes and expectations clearly defined. Students taking a studio course at a 300 level must have previously completed a 200 level course or have received permission to enroll from the instructor. Prerequisites for 200 level: All Foundation studio credits.	3
SC291/391	Ceramics I or II Ceramics SC291/391 This class introduces the student to wheel and hand building techniques, clay bodies, kiln firing and glazing strategies. With the acquisition of these basic skills, the student can begin to build competency in clay, slip and glaze handling and develop a sustaining personal vocabulary of form, surface, content and context. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio credits.	3
SC291/391	Fabrication Techniques-Metal and Wood I or II Fabrication Techniques-Metal and Wood SC291/391 This course will provide the student with a variety of techniques and approaches for fabricating with both wood and metal. Traditional techniques including wood joinery methods, laminating, woodturning, mild steel shaping and welding, TIG welding, and brazing will be taught in addition to more creative and unique fabrication techniques. Shop, material and tool safety and project/time management strategies will also be part of the course. The techniques learned will help bring your ideas, designs and imaginings into stable, dimensional reality. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio credits	3
SC291/391	Moldmaking I or II Moldmaking SC291/391 This course explores the primary tools, materials, and processes used in mold making technology as it relates to contemporary sculptural practice. An overview of various methods of both rigid and flexible mold making will be explored as well as both solid and hollow shell casting techniques and materials. There will be an emphasis on studio etiquette, craftsmanship and production as well as creative applications of mold making and casting. Students will also be exposed to contemporary artists who utilize mold making as a central part of their practice. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio credits	3
SC291/391	Multiples I or II Multiples SC291/391 Many approaches to making sculpture involve concerns of the multiple either through simple reproductive strategies, duplicating, serializing or sequencing elements within the imagery. Further, many concerns for "objectness" in sculpture often involve thematic or conceptual connections contrasting ideas of the singular with the other-the present with the past or future (change) perhaps with particular places, sites or concerns of identity- or conversations implied through contrasting materiality. This course concentrates on several of the more focal concerns that these strategies can bring to bear on three-dimensional image making. We will concentrate on three elements, or general themes, implied by constructs involving multiples in imagery with an assignment in each of the following areas: The original, the module and the transformed.	3
SC291/391	Soft Sculpture I or II Soft Sculpture SC291/391 Soft Sculpture is designed as a studio class that is technique and assignment driven with lectures to contextualize the work. We will knit, make patterns, inflate, sew (hand and with the machines), draw, crochet, felt, stuff, bake, shoot images, videotape, perform, experiment, etc. I will encourage students to try new things and stretch our understanding of what SOFT can be. By definition SOFT is an adjective with many meanings - pleasing to the senses, mellow flavor, subdued, quiet, smooth, delicate, balmy, mild, easy, gradual rising, having curved outlines, tender, kind, low key, impressionable, feeble, not firm, spreadable, low energy and it can also be a noun. We will develop a working visual and verbal vocabulary drawn from historical precedents as well as contemporary practices and trial and error. We will begin to identify and understand deeper intent in our work through applying what we are learning, reading, discussions, field trips, sketchbooks and critiques. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio credits.	3

SCULPTURE (cnnt).

SC291/391	Experimenting With Materials I Experimenting With Materials SC291/391 or II The focus of this studio class is to give the students the freedom to experiment with new materials without the pressure of the finished piece. Critiques will be based on a discussion of the process, successes and 'failures' and potentially will lead to content and concept, though the ideas are not the emphasis here. Class time will be used to research materials, costs, artists working this way and to understand the materials potential uses and meanings. The process of creating these works will be the majority of class time, trying several approaches to achieve a basic level of mastery. Workshops, lectures and readings will drive our material choices. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio credits.	3
SC291/391	Activated Objects I or II Activated Objects SC291/391 The focus for this course will be on the activated object. Pulling the forms off the pedestal and wall and giving them a secondary or expanded function beyond the formal and static. We will be constructing objects, interventions, props, tools and models that will explore notions of use, function, application, task and performance. This arena will be a rich space to deploy poetic metaphors, present social challenges, reveal personal predilections and dynamically activate the spaces between maker, object, audience and impact. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio credits.	3
SC291/391	The Figure I or II The Figure SC291/391 This course will focus on obtaining the skills necessary to depict the human form from life, and truly learning how to observe and work from the model. Students will become adept with proportion and scale, and will learn how to make gestures in clay, build armatures, and create a finished figure sculpture. Students will become familiar with the different clays and sculpting tools available. At the completion of this course, the students will be comfortable in visualizing 3D forms in clay and how to develop their own sculptural styles and techniques. Students at this level also begin experimentation with a range of alternative materials and process that support current practices in contemporary art. The course will provide an introduction to the theoretical perspective of the past, present and future state of figure sculpture concerns. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio credits.	3
SC391 (or SA410)	Material, Process, Idea I or II Material, Process, Idea SC391 (or SA410) This studio class is designed to immerse students in the complex interrelationship of their ideas, working methods, material choices and language through independently directed bodies of work and through research and experimentation and refined, concentrated approaches to sculptural problems. Students will be asked to investigate, establish and refine the interrelated influences that direct their specific making. They will be asked to refine their verbal language to become more fluent in both discussing and defending the specifics of their concerns and to connect those concerns to broader conversations. They will also be asked to refine their visual language and align it with the materials and processes they employ. Virtually any sort of working project will be possible as long as it engages the sculptural language or an interest in where sculptural ideas bump into imagery more GDonly placed outside the sculptural discourse. Students may start with familiar imagery, materials and processes— Track similar projects or interests they have underway in new ways or that are sourced in different media or disciplines— or they may wish to break new ground and explore and establish entirely new ways of GDunicating through making. Projects and trajectories will be negotiated with the instructor. Prerequisites: Prerequisites: 200 level Sculpture or permission.	3
SC394	Sculpture:Special Topics Sculpture Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum. Prerequisite: Junior Standing	3

VIDEO & SOUND

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
VID211	Beginning Video	This lower division studio course will explore video as a distinct medium and will encourage an understanding of sound-image relationships. Topics include fundamentals of video editing and production, camera use, sound acquisition, framing, composition, content and context, coverage, sequencing, and linear and non-linear narrative structures. Premiere Pro will be the primary software used in this course. An understanding of video and sound will be gained through lectures on historical and contemporary applications and ideas, hands on exercises, projects, research and writing, visiting artists, discussions of readings as well as film and video screenings. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
VID212	Beginning Sound	This lower division studio course examines sound in the context of audio-visual media and as a medium in its own right. The principles, vocabularies and strategies of sound-image relationships will be explored through viewings, listening, lectures, readings, and visiting artists. Examples will be drawn from cinema, video art, experimental music and sound art. Students will develop techniques and skills for recording, editing, and composing sound and voice. Increased proficiency in Soundtrack Pro will build on and complement Final Cut Pro training from Time Arts. Additional audio software such as Audacity will be introduced. Projects will apply concepts to hands-on artistic practice, encouraging creative problem solving and aesthetic risk-taking. Critiques will develop the articulation of sound-image relationships, personal intentions and observations of other's work, using precise and medium-specific vocabulary.	3
VID213	Video Strategies	This studio course focuses on developing a critical awareness of the techniques and conventions that structure our experience of fiction and nonfiction video. The first section of the course is a close examination of how the components of video combine to yield an overall sense of form: narrative, mise-en-scene, cinematography, editing, and sound. The next two sections of the course investigate a variety of modes of making and thinking about video, including histories and traditions within the medium, as well as critical and theoretical frameworks. Through studio projects, critiques, readings, written assignments, lectures, screenings, class visits from specialists, and ongoing reflection, students will develop a GDoN vocabulary and base of knowledge from which to continue further study of video and sound. Prerequisites: All Foundation studio courses.	3
VID311	Intermediate Video	In this upper division studio course, we will explore interrelated video and sound practices with an emphasis on single channel video. From conception to distribution, we will examine the role of artist-made videos in our culture while simultaneously honing our technical knowledge of the medium. Students will generate personalized projects, proceeding from research and experimentation to proposal and production. Building on fundamental video and sound skills, this course presents advanced techniques for capturing and editing video such as compositing, lighting, and camera movement. The two primary editing tools for this course are Adobe Premiere and After Effects. Screenings, readings, visiting speakers, and discussions tied to contemporary video practices will provide a context for creating individual projects. Our investigations will encourage a fuller understanding of image-sound relationships, advanced methods for making videos, and exhibition possibilities for completed work. Prerequisite: VID211 & VID212	3
VID312	Intermediate Sound	This upper division studio course will explore sound as a medium in its own right. Advanced audio expertise will be developed through recording, composing, mixing, scoring and improvisation. Experiential exercises in sonic ethnography will ground our discussions in everyday life and demonstrate acoustic principles, while improvisation workshops will develop sonic perception and communication. Studio projects will focus on principles of form and signification while strengthening fundamental engineering techniques, through practical interactions with microphones, mixers, hardware and software. Examples will be drawn from a wide range of sources, including historical and contemporary sound art, popular and avant garde music and interdisciplinary contemporary arts. Students will learn to connect artistic intentions to compositional structures and gain methods for integrating expanded sonic resources into their broader practice. Prerequisites: VID212.	3
VID313	Screen & Devices	This course investigates the role of artists in relation to mobile screens, portable media players, smart phones and other network enabled digital devices. In individual and group projects and exercises, students will explore both the intended modes of digital media production and the possibilities for novel forms of expression. In parallel with the rich histories of, and intersections between, art, technology and the cultural imagination, a versatile, cross-platform approach to problem solving will be cultivated. Emphasizing the value of experimental research, creative inquiry and collaborative production models, students will develop adaptive strategies applicable in a wide range of professional context. Prerequisite: VID211-212.	3

VID314 Projection, Sound & Space This upper division studio course will explore the use of video and sound as tools to activate space. 3

Building on fundamental skills, this course will liberate video and sound from the confines of the single-screen viewing environment by encouraging multidimensional approaches. Students will examine spatial variables including architecture, scale, acoustics, sculpture, multiples, sound levels, and luminosity. Additionally, students will gain an understanding of how time-specific elements such as cycling, synchronization, and duration interact with space. Screenings, readings, visiting speakers, and discussions tied to contemporary video and sound practices will help students understand their work in a broader context. Individual and collaborative projects in this course will provide opportunities for understanding image-sound-space relationships, developing an independent voice, and planning exhibitions.

Prerequisites: VID211 and VID212.

CREATIVE WRITING

Crs#	Course Name Description	Credit
CW220	Writing Special Topics Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum.	3
CW221	Introduction to Short Forms This cross-genre and workshop-based writing course takes as its focus specific concerns of crafting and reading shorter work, including compressed narrative and narrative fragments. Students will read published writing, analyze literature, write original material and offer feedback for the work of their peers. They will gain familiarity with the conventions of the traditional short-story as well as flash fiction, (a.k.a. the "short-short,") short poetry forms, the ten-minute play, the one-page essay or editorial, the conte, and micro-formats, including social media and the nascent art of serialized literary work delivered in microinstallments via hand-held technology as either self-published material or with indie or corporate representation. Assigned readings will model successful writing, articulate aesthetic values, and offer a platform for discussion and debate. Students will complete a final project which may take the form of a portfolio, creative work with an analytical explication, an anthology with a contextualizing introduction, or other comprehensive work spanning creative, analytic and intellectual processes and production. This course counts as a studio elective for all other areas of concentration. Prerequisite: LA122.	3
CW223	Expanded Poetic Fields This workshop-based writing course includes the study of language-based creative work not dependent upon or highly utilizing a narrative line to sustain or construct meaning, and that foregrounds language's malleability and potential for expression. Over the course students will investigate and gain an understanding of contemporary poetics and writing for various media. This course welcomes consideration of language as object, of word as symbol, and of image as mark-making alongside written words. Students will read assigned work; consider related images, visual material, and videos; write in class; work on projects outside of class; share work in a guided peer review; complete a substantial final project.	3
CW224	Scripting This course introduces students to the basic terminology, tools and media of contemporary scriptwriting, with specific emphasis and practice in telling stories destined for the stage, television, film, comics, and/or games. Course time will be spent in a combination of lecture blended and peer critique in a workshop setting. Upon successful completion of this course, students will have learned the basics in the craft of scriptwriting, conceived a workable idea, formulated an outline for the expression/ execution of that idea, and made significant work towards a complete and cohesive script for a stage production, television pilot/series, film, comics series/graphic novel, or board/videogame. This course counts as a studio elective for all other areas of concentration. Prerequisite: LA122.	3
CW225	Writing with Digital Media Surveying established and emergent modes of writing across media, this writing-based course augments traditional scholarship with the affordances of digital technology and social media. Drawing on the histories of language and the theories of linguistics and performance, students will explore new possibilities for the articulation and analysis of their ideas. Through various lenses, this course investigates themes such as translation, redaction, immediacy, visibility/invisibility, and various forms of remediation as they are manifest in flash fiction, dead drops, and other new media platforms. The course explores how new technologies depend on and reanimate ancient ways of thinking about language, communication, and meaning making. This course counts as a studio elective for all other areas of concentration. Prerequisite: LA122.	3

CW320	Creative Writing Special Special topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty Topics member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum.	3
CW322	Lit Zine Lit Zine. During the semester, students will design and publish the BFA in Writing Program's literary arts journal, which features fiction, creative non-fiction, and poetry and showcases the creative writing work of the BFA in Writing Program and the PNCA GDunity. Students working on the journal will solicit original work by student writers and artists, set up promotional events, and network with writers and publishers within the Portland area and beyond, if desired. They will also workshop their own creative writing. As part of this process, students will study history of small press and independent press literary journals along with the people and movements related to (and responsible for) this history. At the end of the semester, students will organize and host a release party to share their work with the PNCA GDunity. Prerequisites: LA122, or a 200-level Writing course, or Instructor permission.	3
CW323	Poetry Intensive This writing intensive poetry studio course is designed to expose students to a variety of language-driven creative works and to support a rigorous poetry writing practice in its participants. Students will read, hear, and witness the delivery of poetic forms, and will write original work throughout the semester. Assignments, both in class and those to be completed outside of class, will move from idea generation to editing and re-envisioning. Students will present their work for critique several times during the semester and participate in a collaborative project. The final project can take multiple forms, such as a portfolio, chapbook, e-book, or digital installation, etc., and will draw from works produced during the semester, reproducing the professional writing practice of generation, revision and submission or presentation/exhibition. In addition to self-directed independent study of writers chosen by the student, a selection of shared reading assignments will help students frame/consider questions about immediacy and accessibility, narrative, non-linearity, dissonance, collage and other contemporary poetic concepts. In this section, student participation will include workshop, discussion and critique forums, as well as self-directed study. The course will open and close with a discussion around the idea of what and where the poetic exists in a contemporary, media-driven landscape (print publishing, online, performance, etc.). This course counts as a studio elective for all other areas of concentration. Prerequisites: LA122, or a 200-level Writing course, or Instructor permission.	3
CW324	Scripting Intensive This course builds on Introduction to Scripting, giving students creative time to practice and employ methods learned. It focuses on terminology, tools and media of contemporary scriptwriting in consideration of the stage, television, film and/or comics alongside analysis of successful work by professionals in the field. Course time will be spent in a combination of lecture and peer critique in a workshop setting. Upon successful completion of this course, students will have put into practice the basics of the craft of scriptwriting, conceived a workable idea, formulated an outline for the expression/execution of that idea, and maintained creative momentum toward a complete and cohesive script for a stage production, television pilot, film or graphic novel. They will have also closely considered the work of a professional in the field and written a detailed analysis and presentation of that writer's work. This course counts as a studio elective for all other areas of concentration. Prerequisites: LA122, or a 200-level Writing course, or Instructor permission.	3

LIBERAL ARTS

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
AH125	Exploring Visual Culture	This introductory course explores the relationship between art, design, and our current global culture. We will look at varied examples of contemporary art and design in order to better understand the theories, methods, trends, and histories that shape the production and reception of art and design today. This course will generate ideas and vocabulary that will facilitate your ability to discuss your work and the work of others. It will foster an understanding of how your creative work fits into a larger social, historical, and cultural context. First year course that is pre-req. for AH210.	3
AH210	Introduction to World Art History	This one-semester survey introduces the student to basic concepts and tenets of art history. Lectures, group discussion and in-class exercises are designed to foster development of the critical and analytical skills needed to pursue more focused study and to help students situate their own practice within the contemporary, global and diverse art world. Thematically organized, the course considers diverse media and samples art and design from a variety of cultures. The course asks students to consider the following questions: Why does art from the past look the way it does? How are the creation, process, appearance, and reception of art dependent on cultural context? How do different cultures express similar ideas differently? How do the subjects, impetuses and goals from the past inform contemporary art? Prerequisite: AH125 and LA122.	3
AH213	History of Design Arts	History of Design Arts introduces students to a wide span of eras, cultures, ideas, and practitioners that shaped graphic history and continue to shape it today. Students will examine key historical figures and movements from different vantages, mapping the intersections of design, illustration, and communication through diverse yet overlapping critical lenses. In two-week segments, the class will consider the big picture of graphic history through one of its formative themes to analyze how the forces of culture, media, technology, style, and marketplace have formed the graphic arts through their overlaps, collisions, fusions, and innovations. Through guided discussions, collaborative workshops, and research projects, students will grapple with how design practices throughout history relate to the contemporary state of Graphic Design and illustration. Prerequisite: AH210.	3
AH214	History of Printed Matter	The historical-social context of "print & paper culture" from its historic roots to contemporary culture will be viewed through systems of production & distribution, conditions of power & dissent, knowledge platforms, and the existing and evolving tactics and strategies around communication & visual representation. Philosophies, ideas, practices and personalities of print media and the multiple will be studied through these lenses and will track the influences and rich inspirations from global cultural perspectives. Coursework includes weekly reading selections, two formal analysis essays, a multi-step research project and an in-class presentation. Prerequisite: AH210.	3
AH215	History of Object, Space, and Time	History of Object, Space, and TimeThis is a course that traces the twentieth century shift in our understanding of three- dimensional art from the Modernist concept of the unique, original, autonomous object to the more contemporary perspective of experience, space and time. It also builds a foundation for approaching sculpture, installation, video and performance work, as well as, developing skills in reading, writing, research and analysis. Laying a firm foundation for students interested in sculpture as well as, interdisciplinary and intermedia practices, this course provides a point of departure for upper division liberal arts classes and contemporary studio critique. Prerequisite: AH210.	3
AH216	History of Moving Image	This course charts a history of moving image arts and artists operating within, alongside and in opposition to dominant forms of cinema, television and digital media. We will survey work by video artists, filmmakers, animators and new media artists, critically viewing examples of works that use the tools and techniques of realism, abstraction, appropriation, documentary, and performance. We will inform our understanding of the historical and social context of these works by reading and discussing historical, theoretical, and critical texts that relate to the weekly screenings. In addition, writing assignments, moving image analysis and class discussions will provide students with opportunities to increase and enrich the range of their media literacy skills. Prerequisite: AH210.	3
AH217	History of Photography	This course will study a wide range of images, critical theories, and creative practices that have informed photography's social and artistic history. We will examine our contemporary understanding of photography through an investigation of the social discourse and artistic trends that have surrounded photography's evolution. We will look at the evolution of photographic technologies, techniques and images, as well as the various roles photography has served in our culture through design, commercial art, journalism, and emerging photographic media. Our exploration of this material will be made up of weekly readings, discussions, lectures, and independent writing and research. Prerequisite: AH210.	3
AH218	History of Painting and Drawing	This History of Painting and Drawing surveys the history, philosophies, practices, and personalities of painting and drawing from their Paleolithic origins to their current status throughout the Western world. Emphasis is given to major works studied in relation to the evolution of style, technical innovations and developments, and the history of ideas. Influences and inspirations of non-Western works will be addressed as pertinent. Hierarchies of the discipline will also be discussed within the canon of the visual arts. For example, we will address the grandeur of history painting in the 18th century French Academy and the inclusion of graffiti into the institution in the late 20th century. Prerequisite: AH210.	3

LA122	Writing in Context	This course provides a writing-based introduction to a particular field of study in the liberal arts, ranging from literature to political thought and from film to environmental studies. It is a reading-intensive course taught by Liberal Arts faculty of many disciplines, and draws on both the expertise of the instructor and a broad sampling of texts relevant to the course topic. Foundation Writing and Writing in Context classes introduce students to various approaches to textual interpretation, critical thinking, and writing. In both semesters, the instructors model and teach students how to use citations, appropriate and employ quotations, summarize text, and to build relevant bibliographies. Students learn to read critically, to discuss the material with classmates and with the instructor, to conduct relevant and documented research, and to shape and present informed ideas in a variety of writing formats that demonstrate clarity, coherence, intellectual force, and stylistic control.	3
LA225	Society and Culture	The Perspectives on Society and Culture courses aim to introduce students to wider cultural conversations, providing context for deeper inquiry. The course explores fundamental questions and methods in the disciplines found under the umbrella term of social science. Topics will be drawn from Cultural Anthropology, Ethnic Studies, Gender Studies, History, Media Studies, Philosophy, Politics, Psychology, Religious Studies, Sexuality, Social and Environmental Justice, and Sociology. Topics offered on a rotational basis. Prerequisite: LA122 and AH125.	3
LA321	Social Science Seminar	The Social Sciences encompass anthropology, geography, history, religion, politics, economics, psychology and sociology. In this upper-division seminar, a selection of topics are offered each semester and studied in a way that offer students the opportunity to study a particular historical period or problem or a specific issue within the social sciences. Students investigate and apply the principles and methods of inquiry and critique, reading a variety of scholarly articles and monographs and completing at least one research project. The course also addresses the relationship of social science to other disciplines and to the arts. Recent offerings include: A History of Expositions, Race in America, and Reconsidering the Good War. Prerequisites: LA122, LA225.	3
LA325	Literature Seminar	An upper-division literature course on topics related to concerns of the studio artist. Every semester, faculty propose topics and/or forms of literature in which they ask students to actively investigate and participate. Recent offerings include: Poetry, Aesthetics of Ugliness, Ethnic American Experience in Literature and Film, Race in America, Reading the Personal Memoir, Science F(r)iction, Page to Film: Writing & the Movies, and Hippie! Prerequisite: LA122, LA225.	3
LA410	Liberal Arts Special Topics	Liberal Arts Special Topics courses are approved to take advantage of timely subjects, the expertise of a faculty member, or to test student interest in a topic which may later be added to the curriculum. Prerequisites: Senior standing or permission of Department Chair.	3
LA421	Research for a Creative	This course provides a framework for students to examine ideas relevant to their critical investigations and art and design projects, in order to help them contextualize their work in relation to historical, sociopolitical, scientific, and cultural perspectives. Students in this course demonstrate the ability to frame questions and concepts, and to incorporate research methodologies into ongoing inquiry presented through a variety of formats including extended note-taking, annotated Bibliographies, important terms, quotes, and summaries and responses collected in a research journal/log. The emphasis is on research as a process of critical engagement and inquiry in order to observe connections between seemingly disparate ideas, to hone a well-founded point of view, to plan future actions and strategies, to make predictions, and to ask more insightful questions. While this research will inspire creative projects (either in parallel or in the future), the actual projects are outside the scope of this class. Environment (Internal, External and Constructed Worlds): This theme will explore the ways in which we conceptualize and are affected by our surroundings. We will examine the cultural constructs and scientific underpinnings of environmental; sustainable; wilderness; development and other terminology derived from our socio-economic discourse, and the way these concepts interact with our internal psychology and exists as part of our governance structure. Research topics include issues of climate change, international aid, pollution, environmental justice, policy and law, psychology, evolution and the mind. Prerequisite: Senior or second semester Junior standing, or permission of Instructor or Liberal Arts Chair.	3

MTH101	Mathematics:Visualization & Analysis of Data ...	In this course students will explore how to critically analyze data — using both qualitative and quantitative approaches — and presenting data in visual and quantitative manner to optimize the desired interpretation of the information. A basic introduction to the concepts and methods of statistics and probability will be presented as well methods of interpreting and modeling data using mathematical functions. There will be some straightforward computer-related spreadsheet work.. Prerequisite: None	3
MTH101	Mathematics: Mathematical Modelling...	Mathematics: Modelling: may include Algebra, Calculus, Linear Algebra, Differential Equations. Mathematics courses inspire you to critically and imaginatively engage with a complex and evolving world increasingly influenced by data, technology and science. The curriculum emphasizes research, debate and creative inquiry; cultivates an appreciation of beautiful ideas and powerful methods; and empowers your with the analytical tools, research skills, and knowledge base to reason logically, to argue persuasively, and to interpret theories in science and mathematics through a creative and considered lens. Prerequisite: None	3
MTH101	Mathematics: Number Theory...	Number Theory, Cryptography, Data Mining and Analysis, Discrete Mathematics. Mathematics courses inspire you to critically and imaginatively engage with a complex and evolving world increasingly influenced by data, technology and science. The curriculum emphasizes research, debate and creative inquiry; cultivates an appreciation of beautiful ideas and powerful methods; and empowers your with the analytical tools, research skills, and knowledge base to reason logically, to argue persuasively, and to interpret theories in science and mathematics through a creative and considered lens. Prerequisite: None	3
MTH101	Mathematics: Financial Math for Artists	Mathematics: Financial Math for Artists. This is an introductory course to Financial Mathematics. In this course students will learn how to work with interest, loans, and debt. Students will also learn how to create a price point for their art. By the end of the course students will be able to create both professional and personal budgets. Prerequisite: None	3
MTH101	Mathematics:Computer Science...	Topics Include Programming, Mathematical and Boolean Logic, Algorithms, Data Structures. Mathematics courses inspire you to critically and imaginatively engage with a complex and evolving world increasingly influenced by data, technology and science. The curriculum emphasizes research, debate and creative inquiry; cultivates an appreciation of beautiful ideas and powerful methods; and empowers your with the analytical tools, research skills, and knowledge base to reason logically, to argue persuasively, and to interpret theories in science and mathematics through a creative and considered lens. Prerequisite: None	3
MTH101	Mathematics:Physics...	Topics are quantitative methods only and must include trigonometry/calculus. Mathematics courses inspire you to critically and imaginatively engage with a complex and evolving world increasingly influenced by data, technology and science. The curriculum emphasizes research, debate and creative inquiry; cultivates an appreciation of beautiful ideas and powerful methods; and empowers your with the analytical tools, research skills, and knowledge base to reason logically, to argue persuasively, and to interpret theories in science and mathematics through a creative and considered lens. ND300	Independent Study Independent Study Contracts are available in the Registration Office. They require the approval of the Department Head and Academic Dean. Independent Study is for the purpose of studies which are not incorporated into the curricula of regular classes. Students are encouraged to enroll in regularly scheduled courses whenever possible. Many studio courses may be repeated for additional credit. Independent Study may not be used to add additional credit to an existing course. The student is restricted to no more than one Independent Study per semester unless granted permission by the Academic Dean. One credit of Independent Study requires 3 hours of work per week for 15 weeks, or 45 hours of work. Faculty contact is defined as 3 hours per credit per semester, with meeting times arranged. Studio work: Independent Study is available only to full-time Junior or Senior class level students unless granted an exception by the Academic Dean. An Independent Study may be for no more than 3 studio credits. Independent Study in Liberal Arts is available to all levels, no more than 3 credits per semester.	1 to 3
ND301	Internship An art-related work experience administered by the Career Center Office. Internships, graded on a pass/fail basis, may range from 1 to 6 credits, at a ratio of 45 hours of work per credit. Available to juniors and seniors.	1 to 6
ND302	Global Studios: The PNCA Global Studios Program is founded on the principles of experiential education and intended to lead students to engage in creative practice in unfamiliar cultural settings. A high standard of creative practice in the contemporary world is an understanding of the communicative value and effect of work on a global stage.	3
ND303	Semester Abroad PNCA students are encouraged to spend a semester abroad with one of our exchange partners or program affiliates. Contact the Academic Advisor International for details of available programs and eligibility requirements.	12
ND304	Global Learning Projects Global Learning Projects: All projects are between 4 and 10 days, with substantial work before and after project dates. Projects may be domestic or outside the U.S. but must be outside Portland. We might think of these as pop ups, and they may be initiated by students, staff or faculty, but must have faculty as Project Director. Studio work of up to 3 credits (by application).	3
ND305	AICAD Mobility MOBILITY PROGRAM - Students can spend one semester in their junior year at a sister art school within the US or Canada. Participating schools are members of AICAD (Association of Independent Colleges of Art & Design). Not all AICAD members participate in this program so see Student Handbook for list of participants. Students apply in their sophomore year and can apply to more than one school. If accepted, the student pays PNCA tuition, but will be responsible for any non-tuition fees required by the Host institution.	12

DA441	Design Arts Internship	Design Arts students with junior or senior standing are placed with cooperating employers for approximately 9 hours per week. Employers include designers, design firms, advertising agencies and other creative firms. Within the actual creative environment, students are able to sharpen their skills, gain confidence and have practical work experiences that are invaluable. Before registering, students must apply directly to an internship site and receive confirmation of acceptance. Prerequisite: Junior or Senior standing or consent of Department Chair.	3
DA445	Center for Design	The Center for Design is a student -staffed design studio located on campus. Art direction for the variety of client projects is provided by PNCA faculty. In addition to developing a large body of work for a portfolio the student will have an insider's look the complicated interactions of a working design studio where art and business meet. Student designers are chosen based on portfolio review. Prerequisites: Junior or Senior standing or permission of Department Chair.	3
DA453	Design Arts Thesis Development	This course provides an in-depth exploration into the daily practice of the professional Designer or Illustrator, equipping the student with the skills and knowledge to effectively enter the professional job market. Central to this work is the preparation & building of a final portfolio in both web & traditional formats. The primary goal of this course is the development of a Design Arts Thesis Proposal. This comprehensive project, while having a clear independent language, will also function as a conceptually and visually integrated component of the student's final graduation portfolio. Additionally, the course is designed to engage each student in a comprehensive investigation of creative professional practice with a strong emphasis on client-based application and entrepreneurial studies. Ultimately, students will form the basis of a creative strategy for life beyond PNCA. Students will engage in systems & methodologies for the creation of complex, multi-level design & imagebased project proposals presented visually, verbally, and in writing. They will sharpen their analytical & conceptual skills, broaden their ability to place their work within historical, cultural and theoretical contexts and create a consistent voice in their visual, written and oral communication. In collaboration with the other 400 level courses, Design Arts Thesis Development begins a rigorous & inspiring senior year experience that integrates art making, design strategies, and contemporary creative business practices. ACD501	Studio Practice	With students' individual spaces located in a workshop environment, this Program embraces an approach to design rooted in the culture of making, and emphasizes learning from materials to ground concepts. A central feature of the studio experience is the one-on-one interaction with a mentor selected by the student and Program Chair. The mentor-student relationship is personal and unique, and is at the heart of the MFA in Applied Craft and Design Program. The mentor acts as advocate, critic, resource, and colleague for the student, providing a supportive setting to pursue self-designed, independent investigation and experimentation. The mentor meets with the student for approximately 1.5 hours per week, guiding the student in his/her explorations, discussing the student's goals, and fostering an awareness of social, environmental and ethical concerns and responsibilities in the student's creative practice. Mentors are selected from a group of accomplished artists, designers, makers, and faculty. The Program will connect the student with a mentor whose expertise is directly relevant to the student's focus.	6

ACD525	Critique Seminar	Through Seminar, students engage in thorough, critical analysis of work-in-progress, benefiting from in-depth exposure to the wide variety of disciplines represented in the program. This course includes group critiques with guest critics, studio and design firm visits, workshops, and one-on-one dialogue with leading contemporary practitioners and theorists through the Program's Visiting Artists Series. Emphasis is placed on cultivating the synergistic relationship between the act of making and designing, as well as on seeking opportunities for cross-pollination between disciplines. Students working with metal, for instance, are encouraged to look for possibilities to incorporate or adapt conceptual and technical approaches of students working with wood, ceramics, or fibers, etc. In Seminar students explore issues and topics such as: the relationship of identity and status to material processes; the impact of knowledge-based social policy on craft culture; the concept of gesamtkunstwerk in contemporary society; and the potential for integration of the hand-made into computer based, menu-driven design assemblies.	3

ACD535	Creative Entrepreneurship I The Creative Entrepreneurship course provides a comprehensive introduction to establishing and sustaining a creative entrepreneurial endeavor, with an emphasis on professional arts practices and strategies for small businesses. The course is structured as a series of modules overseen by the instructor, exposing students to the fundamentals of business, marketing, and financial planning for a hybrid based arts practice or small business. Through intense thematic workshops students develop a creative business pitch, explore strategies for networking and self promotion, and learn the basic fundamentals related to legal, tax, and accounting issues. In support of the Program's philosophy of engagement through service learning, each student networks with creative professionals through off campus studio visits and potential internship opportunities. Prerequisites: Students outside of the Applied Craft + Design Program: Permission of instructor The year-long course is organized across two semesters, breaking each semester into quarterly modules that serve as intense thematic workshops. Each thematic workshop results in one to three assignments and requires students to make and produce materials outside of class (six required hours per week). The modules are a la carte, tailored to the specific interests of an arts based practice or a small business, resulting in personalized curriculum.	3
ACD551	Modern Craft & Design History Critical Studies courses challenge students to develop in-depth knowledge of social and environmental movements in Modern craft and design history, articulate positions in discussions concerning contemporary craft and design theory, and place current trends in making into a global context. Studies in modern craft and design history emphasize a careful engagement with key individuals and movements rather than a comprehensive survey. Students focus not only on the history of these fields, but on the critical discussion of the scholarship that frames them. In becoming fluent in contemporary theory, students investigate the DIY movement, concepts such as valorization of the hand, and the shifting boundaries and relationships between fine art, craft, and design. Examining the transformation of craft traditions and adaptive reuse of materials in craft and design globally — and in developing countries in particular — students explore notions of individual and collective identity. In support of the Program's emphasis on applied knowledge, students are required to submit research papers to peer-reviewed journals or conferences in each of the three Critical Studies courses.	3
ACD552	Critical Studies: Theory of the Object This course attempts to map productive, perhaps unexpected, interfaces between craft, design, art, architecture, and technology, and develop means for thinking about emerging disciplines and applications that may synthesize them in interesting ways. Our questions include: What are the relations between material culture, thought, creativity, tradition, and innovation? What is a thing in the age of the telematic, and what is its fate? What does it mean to speak of an "impossible object"? What are the relations between hand and mind, human and machine, making and thinking, objects and systems, and what are the ramifications of their interaction for perception, sensibility, and intelligence? Part of our task will entail looking at some things that may or may not be things, from pots, rings, and wheels to puzzles, labyrinths, and column capitals to photographs, money, and prims to applications that utilize the perennial techniques of craft in novel fashion, for example, textile weaving as a model for 3-D tissue-regeneration scaffolding. Criteria for judgment include scale, texture, contrast, material, dimensionality, process, pattern, hapticity, interactivity, function, and use-value, among others. Readings include works by Flusser, Kubler, Heidegger, Benjamin, Belting, McLuhan, Bachelard, Perce, Summers, Lacan, Ruskin, Tufte, and Focillon. By the end of the course, students will be able to think critically and creatively about questions relevant to their discipline, exhibit mastery of a sophisticated lexicon, and explore interesting conjunctions of theory and practice in their work and that of others.	3
ACD601	Studio Practice With students' individual spaces located in a workshop environment, this Program embraces an approach to design rooted in the culture of making, and emphasizes learning from materials to ground concepts. A central feature of the studio experience is the one-on-one interaction with a mentor selected by the student and Program Chair. The mentor-student relationship is personal and unique, and is at the heart of the MFA in Applied Craft and Design Program. The mentor acts as advocate, critic, resource, and colleague for the student, providing a supportive setting to pursue self-designed, independent investigation and experimentation. The mentor meets with the student for approximately 1.5 hours per week, guiding the student in his/her explorations, discussing the student's goals, and fostering an awareness of social, environmental and ethical concerns and responsibilities in the student's creative practice. Mentors are selected from a group of accomplished artists, designers, makers, and faculty. The Program will connect the student with a mentor whose expertise is directly relevant to the student's focus.	6

ACD625	Critique Seminar	Through Seminar, students engage in thorough, critical analysis of work-in-progress, benefiting from in-depth exposure to the wide variety of disciplines represented in the program. This course includes group critiques with guest critics, studio and design firm visits, workshops, and one-on-one dialogue with leading contemporary practitioners and theorists through the Program's Visiting Artists Series. Emphasis is placed on cultivating the synergistic relationship between the act of making and designing, as well as on seeking opportunities for cross-pollination between disciplines. Students working with metal, for instance, are encouraged to look for possibilities to incorporate or adapt conceptual and technical approaches of students working with wood, ceramics, or fibers, etc. In Seminar students explore issues and topics such as: the relationship of identity and status to material processes; the impact of knowledge-based social policy on craft culture; the concept of gesamtkunstwerk in contemporary society; and the potential for integration of the hand-made into computer based, menu-driven design assemblies.	3

ACD671	Practicum	The Practicum is similar to a Thesis, but emphasizes practical application of knowledge or skill in a new way, through an independent project approved by the student's GDittee. The main thrust of the Practicum is to create work through engagement with a specific GDunity, client, or user, and with an emphasis on addressing social and environmental concerns. The type and scale of projects students pursue for the Practicum ranges widely, but is centrally informed by the act of making and design-thinking. The Practicum is intended to be an externalized expression of the work produced in Studio Practice, and requires a capstone paper. In preparing the rationale for their proposal, students pursue rigorous methods of applied research, as well as utilizing strategies to identify and interact with various stakeholders. Students present reports of their progress to their GDittee at preliminary and intermediate stages. Upon completion, the Practicum culminates in a formal public presentation.	3

COL500	Studio Elective	MFA in Collaborative Design Electives - THE INSTITUTES IN COLLABORATIVE DESIGN are a series of workshops that introduce new design strategies and methods for stakeholder engagement. Each workshop is led by a different innovator in the design field. Past presenters include Carl DiSalvo, Tad Hirsch, Catherine Kramer, Stewart Long, Sara Huston, and Don Harker. Their inquiries into the intersections of politics, engineering, environmentalism, and design have resulted in a range of provocative and innovative projects. Topics of exploration have included web-based networks that regulate social and environmental accountability, mapping software that enables people to avoid CCTV surveillance, traditional ecological knowledge mapping, ecosystem design, process design for tsunami cleanup, gardening robots, edible clouds, and cross-species picnics.	3
COL501	CD Studio I	COL 501 Collaborative Design Studio (3 cr engagements) Collaborative Design Studios are structured to give students a hands-on experience of working intimately with clients, collaborators and partners, and to go through the process of formulating a project that must be client-centric. Each studio begins with a design brief and initial resources, moves to problems and challenges, ideation, prototype solutions, and finishes with deliverables. Studio design briefs will adapt each year to local, regional and global opportunities, as well as faculty and student interests. Topic area include: Design Ethnography, Product Design, Living Systems Design, Redesign, Participatory Design, Disruptive Design, Institutional Design, Video Design, Sound Design, Rapid Prototyping, Design Essentials, Science, Policy & Design.	3
COL502	CD Studio II	Graduate Studios are structured to give students a hands-on experience of working intimately with clients, collaborators and partners, and to go through the process of formulating a client-centric project. Each studio will facilitate a pattern of discovery, proposal, and build, where students are presented with – or develop - a design brief, and collaboratively create potential design solutions. Graduate Studio topics will adapt each year to local, regional and global opportunities and concerns, as well as faculty and student interests.	3
COL511	Workshop	Graduate Workshops are a chance for students to build specific skills in a studio intensive. The role of the workshop instructor is to bring domain expertise or a thoughtful plan for experimentation that allows students to acquire a set of skills, techniques or way of working. This workshop experience will encourage collaborative and independent practice while supporting the individual student's needs. Also offering - THE INSTITUTES IN COLLABORATIVE DESIGN are a series of workshops that introduce new design strategies and methods for stakeholder engagement. COL525	Critique Seminar	This seminar introduces students to local, regional and global environmental - social - economic issues and stakeholders, to help students present their work in a professional manner, to articulate the issues their work is intended to address, and to formulate a basis of evaluation of their work and the work of others. The course will specifically explore issues and stakeholders relevant to students' individual practices, potential projects and portfolios. The seminar will meet weekly to critique, in rotation, the work-in-progress of all candidates and studio lab teams. The seminar will include visiting artists and scholars, critiques with academic and industry experts, and off-campus trips to regional GDunity stakeholders. During each graduate seminar students will work on the development of their capstone project.	3
COL526	Critique Seminar	The course is intended to introduce students to various design research methodologies both in theory and practice including, but not limited to, qualitative and quantitative research utilizing the following lenses: Anthropologist, Scientist, Designer, Journalist, Marketer and Historian. The seminar will specifically explore design methodologies and issues/stakeholders relevant to students' individual practices, potential projects and proposed capstones. The seminar will meet weekly offering a mixture of lecture, field trips, guest speakers, and critique. Students will be expected to engage in research resulting in written, visual and oral presentations.	3
COL535	Collaborative Design Independent Study	Collaborative Design Independent Study requires approval of the Dept. Chair in MFA Collaborative Design.	1
COL551	Critical Studies	In this course, we will examine social-ecological systems and regimes from a specific perspective: the roles of public and private individuals and organizations as agents of change. Seeking a systemic and critical understanding of ethical bases for social activism, we will discuss successes and failures of current social-ecological regimes ("business as usual") in providing for social wellbeing, as well as the bases for considering the wellbeing of nature more broadly. We will examine the composition and relative stability of regimes, and we will examine frameworks for understanding and assessing the effectiveness of social inquiries and interventions aimed at regime transformation.	3

COL552	Critical Studies	Through lectures, discussions, and field trips we will explore successful strategies of designing for complexity in Portland, Oregon. The instructor and guest presenters will discuss iterative, generative and transdisciplinary design processes as they relate to dynamic systems. Skills such as matrix mapping, creating cooperative networks, adaptive processes and effective means of client engagement will be demonstrated. This course will explore successful strategies for creating solutions for diverse ecological, social and economic issues. It will also train students to recognize the design opportunities through system indicators in the world around them. Students will develop their own design epistemology and tool kit for strategic planning.	3
COL601	Studio Capstone	Collaborative Design Studios are structured to give students a hands-on experience of working intimately with clients, collaborators and partners, and to go through the process of formulating a project that must be client-centric. Each studio begins with a design brief and initial resources, moves to problems and challenges, ideation, prototype solutions, and finishes with deliverables. Studio design briefs will adapt each year to local, regional and global opportunities, as well as faculty and student interests. COL611	Workshop	Graduate Workshops are a chance for students to build specific skills in a studio intensive. The role of the workshop instructor is to bring domain expertise or a thoughtful plan for experimentation that allows students to acquire a set of skills, techniques or way of working. This workshop experience will encourage collaborative and independent practice while supporting the individual student's needs.	1
COL625	Graduate Critique Seminar	Collaboration, Facilitation, Participation This course will explore different models of collaboration, facilitation and participation as they apply to local, regional and global ecological -social - economic issues and stakeholders, help students to present their work in a professional manner, to articulate the issues their work is intended to address, and to formulate a basis of evaluation of their work and the work of others. It will also explore these models as they apply to students' individual practices, potential projects and portfolios. The seminar will meet weekly to critique, in rotation, the work-in-progress of all candidates and studio lab teams. The seminar will include visiting artists and scholars, critiques with academic and industry experts, and off-campus trips to regional GDunity stakeholders.	3
COL626	Graduate Critique Seminar:Capstone	Capstone seminar is intended to help students realize a successful final project by providing structure and guidance during the completion of the capstone. This course provides students with an opportunity to present, refine and receive feedback on their capstone project. Regular presentations and critiques of capstone projects will be supplemented with small workshops, lectures and site visits throughout the semester. It is essential that students meet each milestone and deadline provided in the course syllabus in order to remain in good standing in the program.	3
COL652	Critical Studies: Creative Leadership	This course helps participants refine skills for professional life. By the end of the course students will have a thoughtful and well-designed online presence that presents the individual and their work to potential collaborators and employers. Participants will have an updated CV and a pdf portfolio. Students will develop a personalized job / grant tracking system and will have successfully completed job and/or grant applications. Students are also given the opportunity to initiate a kickstarter or other online crowd-sourced funding project, and develop an exhibition strategy for presenting their capstone to the public.	3

GRADUATE / Critical Studies

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
CS501	Critical Theory 1: Introduction	This seminar is an introduction to major concepts and questions in critical theory, beginning with key figures in the Frankfurt School and moving through feminism, critical race theory, and postcolonial criticism. The seminar claims critical theory as a creative project of analysis and exposure radically interested in accountability and the material effects of ideas. Because the course is taught in the context of an art school, we will pay particular attention to images, exploring overlaps and tensions between critical theory and visual studies and investigating the role critical theory and art can play in transforming institutions and ideologies.	3
CS502	Critical Theory 2: Critical Race Theory, Postcolonial Theory	This seminar explores Critical Race Theory, Postcolonial Theory as analytical frameworks that provide epistemological and methodological approaches to the study of structural inequalities. The seminar takes as its starting point Critical Race Theory's insistence that racism is pervasive, persistent, and ongoing and examines how institutional racism, colonialism, and imperialism are embedded in institutions, laws, practices, and policies. The seminar approaches "race" as a social construction with material effects (racism) and investigates the roles language, images, and other forms of cultural production play in racism, (de)colonization, and resistance movements. The seminar will combine required content with opportunities for intense engagement with specialized topics the student chooses to explore more deeply related to their thesis work. Students will be encouraged to connect assigned texts to their own areas of expertise and research interests.	3
CS521	Research for a Creative Practice 1	This seminar explores the connection between critical theory and creative research, providing a framework for students to pose questions and incorporate qualitative research methodologies into ongoing inquiry. The emphasis is on research as a process of critical engagement for observing connections between seemingly disparate ideas, planning future actions and strategies, and asking better questions. The seminar will investigate how power (mis)shapes knowledge production and will introduce students to a range of qualitative research methods and examples of creative inquiries that cross the boundaries of discipline and genre. By the end of the class, students will identify the questions that will frame their thesis research and writing, and the methods they will use to investigate those questions.	3
CS522	Research for a Creative Practice 2	This seminar approaches thesis research as a process of revealing, challenging, and dismantling systems of oppression—and reimagining alternatives. By the end of the seminar, students will have written a literature review of relevant theorists, artists, and creative practices that will inform their thesis work and will be prepared to transform core concepts and questions into a novel, researchable project that will make a contribution to the field. In addition, students will develop presentation skills for clearly communicating research ideas with theoretical and methodological rigor to various audiences. At the end of the term during Focus Week, student will make public presentation of their proposed projects, which will be evaluated by a panel composed of faculty, artists, and GDunity stakeholders.	3
CS525	Ethics & Visual Culture	This seminar explores critical theory as a critique of seeing. The course models the program's combination of critical theory and creative research and investigates practices of looking and the production, circulation, and effects of visual images. When images can be used both to liberate and to oppress, to save and to kill, what does it mean to be an artist? What does it mean to be a viewer? This seminar investigates how images are used both to construct and resist "otherness." Drawing on visual studies, critical theory, religious studies, performance theory, rhetorical analysis, and ethics, the seminar attends to the responsibilities of image-makers and image consumers; the roles of artists and viewers in an image-saturated culture; the use of images to create difference; and questions about how human beings engage language and images to make and unmake worlds.	3
CS526	Creative Non-Fiction Writing	In this writing workshop, students will explore the broad genre of creative nonfiction—from small-scale constraint based writing exercises to the personal essay to academic articles to art reviews to non-narrative poetry and beyond. Through a variety of writing exercises, experiments, and reading assignments, we will play with language, content, and form. Emphasis is placed on experimentation and argument as means to develop a personal vocabulary while initiating a self-directed writing practice. A series of visiting writers will assist us in this work. The course is designed to support graduate students preparing for thesis writing, visual artists who use language and text in their work, and creative writers.	3

CS630	Professional Practice In this seminar, students develop effective professional strategies to successfully pursue a chosen career path upon completion of the CS program. The course helps students identify opportunities for achieving meaningful career objectives and for making a contribution as a critical citizen. Students learn concrete professional skills: curriculum vitae formatting, email and communication etiquette, letter writing, interviewing, public speaking, job search resources, portfolio development, and how to apply for opportunities (which may include PhD programs, teaching positions, publications, grants, fellowships, internships, residencies, or exhibitions). The objective is to prepare the future CS graduate to identify, plan and pursue a strategy for meaningful career development and a rewarding professional life in which their talents translate into a significant critical cultural contribution.	9
CS631	Thesis Writing 1 This thesis workshop seminar is intended to support students as they complete and defend a successful master's thesis for the CS program. The thesis (30-50 pages) will be both critical and constructive; that is, it should reveal, challenge, and dismantle systems of oppression, while also reimagining possible ways forward. The course will provide students with opportunities to present, refine, and receive feedback on their written work. Regular reviews of drafts will occur in a combination of writing workshops, assigned critical friends groups, and meetings with the professor throughout the semester. Each student will be provided with an additional mentor with expertise in their area of investigation. Final thesis work will be presented to a panel of faculty, artists, and GDunity stakeholders at the start of the spring semester.	6
CS632	Thesis Writing 2: Preparing for Publication Due to the fact that so much graduate writing ends up gathering dust on library shelves or serving as doorstops, this workshop is designed to help students prepare their thesis work for publication in the world. At the beginning of the semester, students will present and defend their completed thesis paper to a panel composed of faculty, artists, and GDunity stakeholders. In addition to evaluating the thesis work, the panel will also help students determine the next shape(s) their thesis work should take and the best venues for its distribution. The form of publication will depend on the student's area of interest and professional practice plans—perhaps an essay for Art Forum, articles for peer-reviewed academic journals, a mission statement and business plan for a non-profit, a series of critical art essays, a GDunity manifesto, a zine, or something else entirely.	6

PRM501	Print Media - Graduate Studio	Graduate Studio, the foundation of the 60-credit, two-year MFA in Print Media program, students take an individualized approach to their education, synthesizing their diverse experiences into their work. Students work in private studios within a shared GDunity environment, where cross-disciplinary exchange is highly encouraged. Studio practice is guided by faculty mentors who meet with students weekly to provide critique, dialogue, and occasional assignments geared toward the individual student's creative investigations. Graduate Studio culminates in an exhibition of work and a written thesis presented at the end of the second year. In addition to working with faculty mentors, students meet for group critiques and on-campus activities.	3

PRM525	Graduate Critique Seminar	Taken all four semesters by all students in the Print Media program, the Graduate Critique Seminar provides candidates with an intellectual GDunity and critical forum in which they may test, temper, and enlarge the ideas that underlie their artistic goals. The Seminar will meet weekly to critique, in rotation, the work-in-progress of all candidates. The cross-disciplinary nature of the conversation is meant to foster the widest possible dialogue among artists, encourage divergent thinking and discourage the easy acceptance of received notions. The seminar will also include lectures, critiques, and discussions with Visiting Artists/Scholars/Critics. The Seminar is led by one of the MFA in Print Media faculty, who may also enlist other faculty members, as well as visiting artists, critics and scholars, to join discussions and critiques. Students may also be assigned critical readings to prepare for presentation and discussion, and class meetings would be supplemented by lectures and performances of visiting artists to PNCA, as well as by trips off-campus to exhibitions and performances locally and beyond.	3

PRM551	Collaboration & Research Lab	This four semester course provides an experimental laboratory experience supporting research, collaboration and creativity. Students will collaborate on projects as both experiments and professional practice. They will be required to search out a topic of research for each semester, which could continue through all four semesters. Research logs and presentations will be conducted in the lab and presented to the GDunity. This course allows the student to use the scientific process as an alternative form of making as they take a more independent and creative line of inquiry in other courses.	3

PRM561	Critical Studies:Pedagogy	This is a MFA course addressing pedagogical strategies in post-secondary arts education. Through readings, students will be introduced to various philosophies of education from arts educators and philosophers from around the globe and will critically discuss these ideas in class. By the end of the course students will develop their own written teaching philosophy, a sample syllabus for a Foundation class at PNCA, as well as a sample syllabus for a class of their choice, and will teach one topic from this course. Lectures and guests will augment discussion of professional practice issues surrounding arts education and what is involved in successfully applying for teaching positions. MFA students enrolled in this course will simultaneously act as a student teacher to a PNCA faculty member and will maintain a weekly log of their experience as a student teacher.	3

PRM562	CS:Contemporary Print Media Seminar	This seminar will immerse students in the world of contemporary printmaking by looking at the prominent producers and disseminators of print media. With the definition of "what is a print?" rapidly expanding, students will contextualize works by identifying and analyzing trends and influences. Innovations in media, including digital interfaces and 3D fabrication, will be examined for how they shape the meaning, appearance, display, and audience for fine prints, which have come to include objects, installations, video and other time-based art. Lectures, readings, and discussions will take up the critical theory and aesthetics of contemporary print practices, addressing questions such as the place of craft and process, the idea of originality and authenticity, the role of collaboration and GDunity in professional print workshops, the relation of image and text, and the intersection of fine art and Graphic Design, commercialism, industry, technology, and society. The course will be complemented by museum and gallery tours and visits from guest speakers. Students will contribute oral presentations and complete a final research essay.	3

PRM602	Capstone Project with Mentor	This credit bearing studio assignment allows graduate students to explore, experiment and apply their creative practice in either an independent or collaborative process. This assignment will continue through all four semesters of the program. Every semester, students will be assessed by their chair, program faculty, invited guests and peers as they develop a body of work. In the final semester, students will be linked with a mentor to focus on a capstone project. The capstone project will also be evaluated by the chair, program faculty and invited guests. Students will be required to give an oral presentation and defend their outcomes. This capstone process is linked to a thesis paper, which is developed in the Capstone Research + Writing Course.	6

The Seminar is led by one of the MFA in Print Media faculty, who may also enlist other faculty members, as well as visiting artists, critics and scholars, to join discussions and critiques. Students may also be assigned critical readings to prepare for presentation and discussion, and class meetings would be supplemented by lectures and performances of visiting artists to PNCA, as well as by trips off-campus to exhibitions and performances locally and beyond.	3
PRM626	Graduate Critique Seminar	Taken all four semesters by all students in the Print Media program, the Graduate Critique Seminar provides candidates with an intellectual GDunity and critical forum in which they may test, temper, and enlarge the ideas that underlie their artistic goals. The Seminar will meet weekly to critique, in rotation, the work-in-progress of all candidates. The cross-disciplinary nature of the conversation is meant to foster the widest possible dialogue among artists, encourage divergent thinking and discourage the easy acceptance of received notions. The seminar will also include lectures, critiques, and discussions with Visiting Artists/Scholars/Critics. PRM651	Collaboration & Research Lab	This four semester course provides an experimental laboratory experience supporting research, collaboration and creativity. Students will collaborate on projects as both experiments and professional practice. They will be required to search out a topic of research for each semester, which could continue through all four semesters. Research logs and presentations will be conducted in the lab and presented to the GDunity. This course allows the student to use the scientific process as an alternative form of making as they take a more independent and creative line of inquiry in other courses.	3

PRM661	Critical Studies:Multiples This course examines "multiples" in historical and contemporary contexts in order to develop criteria for understanding and strategies for reconfiguring the concept. Our exploration will include examples from craft, design, art, media, and technology and the intersections and exchanges between these interrelated fields. Throughout, we will be interested in exploring relations between making and thinking, hand and mind, human and machine, objects and systems, materiality and abstraction and the ramifications of the pairs' interactions for perception, sensibility and intelligence. The course will also address issues relevant to the course material raised by and related to the MFA lectures and invited guests. In addition to preparing weekly readings, students will engage in a semester-long research project and present their findings in both written formats and oral presentations.	3
PRM662	Crit Studies:Capstone Research & Writing This course is designed to instruct, guide, and support Print Media students with the completion of a Thesis Paper. The Thesis Paper is a statement of your critical positions as an artist and/or collaborator. It is informed by your creative practice and supported by relevant sources. This course prepares students to develop a successfully researched paper that relates the concept, process, and evaluation of their capstone project. At the end of this course, the student should be prepared to present a thoroughly developed Thesis Paper, Oral Presentation, and defense of their Capstone Project. Each student will be led through rough drafts before the final paper is presented for grading, binding, and storage in the PNCA library holdings.	3

VS501	Graduate Studio Graduate Studio, the foundation of the 60-credit, two-year MFA in VS program, students take an individualized approach to their education, synthesizing their diverse experiences into their work. Students work in private studios within a shared GDunity environment, where cross-disciplinary exchange is highly encouraged. Studio practice is guided by faculty mentors who meet with students weekly to provide critique, dialogue, and occasional assignments geared toward the individual student's creative investigations. Graduate Studio culminates in an exhibition of work and a written thesis presented at the end of the second year. In addition to working with faculty mentors, students meet for group critiques and on-campus activities.	9

VS551	Contemporary Art and Design Seminar This is a graduate level one-semester course that exposes students to contemporary art making strategies, artists, curators, critics, histories and systems that influence and drive the expansion of the current art world. This is an image-based course in which art and theory are approached in an interconnected fashion, with an emphasis on the flow and interchange of significant ideas between the visual and the textual — art in dialogue with theory and history. Topics will be explored through: slide lectures, museum and gallery visits, videos and web sites, as well as reading discussion of selected books, articles and essays. Students engage in research methodology as part of the oral presentation and writing component of the class, providing an opportunity to share research. In order to reflect a variety of viewpoints and disciplines, guests are invited to speak on a broad range of contemporary art and theoretical concerns. Over the course of the semester, a series of related issues are addressed in conjunction with invited guests and MFA lectures whose work is relevant to the subject under discussion.	3
VS552	Contemporary Theory Seminar This seminar explores critical theory as a critique of seeing, images, art, the construction of "otherness" (sexism, racism, classism, heterosexism, nationalism, etc.), and the roles and responsibilities of artists and viewers. Questions about theory and practice will be grounded in examples of the work of artists. The seminar begins and ends with questions. When images can be used both to save and to kill, what does it mean to be an artist? Drawing on critical theory, performance theory, rhetorical analysis, and ethics, we will attend to the responsibilities of image-makers and image consumers; the roles of artists in an image-saturated culture; the (mis)use of images to construct difference; and questions about how human beings engage language and images to make worlds. Topics to be covered include: visuality, panopticism, performativity, ideology, experience, racism, whiteness, phenomenology, postcolonialism, sexism, queerness, resistance, agency, language, grievability, mystery, and (in)visibility.	3

VS555	Critical Pedagogy	Offered both Fall Semester and Spring Semester This is a graduate level course addressing pedagogical strategies in post-secondary arts education. Students will be introduced through readings to various philosophies of education from arts educators and philosophers from around the globe and will critically discuss these ideas in class. By the end of the course students will develop their own written teaching philosophy, a sample syllabus of a class of their choice, a cover letter and a teaching CV. Lectures and invited guests will augment discussion of professional practice issues surrounding arts education and what is involved in successfully applying for teaching positions. MFA students enrolled in this course will simultaneously act as a student teacher to one of the PNCA faculty and will maintain a weekly log of their experience in the class.	3

VSLR501	Graduate Studio Summer Onsite Graduate Studio, the foundation of the 60-credit, MFA in VS (low-res) program, students take an individualized approach to their education, synthesizing their diverse experiences into their work. Students work in private studios within a shared GDunity environment, where cross-disciplinary exchange is highly encouraged. Studio practice is guided by faculty mentors who meet with students weekly to provide critique, dialogue, and occasional assignments geared toward the individual student's creative investigations. Graduate Studio culminates in an exhibition of work and a written thesis presented at the end of their final summer. In addition to working with faculty mentors, students meet for group critiques and on-campus activities.	4.5
VSLR502 VSLR503	Graduate Studio Fall Offsite / Spring Offsite Graduate Studio, the foundation of the 60-credit, MFA in VS (low-res) program, students take an individualized approach to their education, synthesizing their diverse experiences into their work. Students work in private studios within a shared GDunity environment, where cross-disciplinary exchange is highly encouraged. Studio practice is guided by faculty mentors who meet with students weekly to provide critique, dialogue, and occasional assignments geared toward the individual student's creative investigations. Graduate Studio culminates in an exhibition of work and a written thesis presented at the end of their final summer. In addition to working with faculty mentors, students meet for group critiques and on-campus activities.	3
VSLR512	Winter Studio Review During five days in January, students meet on campus for Winter reviews during which they receive feedback on work produced during the Fall and engage in intensive seminars and short workshops.	1.5
VSLR525	Graduate Critique Seminar The goal of this course is to provide candidates with an intellectual GDunity and critical forum in which they may test, temper, and enlarge the ideas that underlie their artistic goals. The Seminar will meet regularly to critique, in rotation, the work of all candidates. The cross-disciplinary nature of the conversation is meant to foster the widest possible dialogue among artists, encourage divergent thinking and discourage the easy acceptance of received notions. MFA students will participate with regional, national and international visiting artists, designers, critics, scholars, curators and others, in student critiques and discussions. Professional practice is embedded in these seminars. Faculty leading this course may also enlist other faculty members, as well as visiting artists, critics and scholars, to join discussions and critiques. Students may also be assigned critical readings to prepare for presentation and discussion. Visiting artists may engage students through demonstrations as well as by trips off-campus to exhibitions and performances locally and beyond.	3
VSLR531	VSLR Independent Study Dept. Chair approval required	3
VSLR532	Visiting Artist Lecture Series Each week during the intensive a Visiting Artist or Scholar is hosted by the program introducing MFA students to the breadth of contemporary artistic, scholarly, philosophical and cultural voices. Each summer the Low-Residency MFA also hosts an Artist-in-Residence who works for an extended period within the program. Visiting Artists, Scholars, and Artists-in-Residence are selected specifically in response to the MFA students within the program and their areas of inquiry.	1.5
VSLR534	Library Research Seminar Structured to take place during the first year winter review session, the Library Research Seminar provides both an orientation to library resources and critical independent research skills for students who will be at distance between summer intensives. The seminar provides tools and instruction for using online digital resources and access to journals, periodicals and texts. A short research paper on a topic of interest is used to showcase best practices and initiate the assessment of a student's writing.	1.5
VSLR551	Contemporary Art Seminar This is an upper division one-semester course that exposes students to contemporary art histories, strategies, artists, curators, critics, and systems that influence and drive the expansion of the current art world. Art, criticism and theory are approached in an interconnected fashion, with an emphasis on the flow and interchange of significant ideas between the visual and the textual — art in dialogue with theory and history. Topics will be explored through slide lectures, gallery visits, videos, web sites and reading discussion of selected books, articles and essays. Students will engage in research methodologies within the written and oral presentation components of this course, with the final oral presentation providing the opportunity to share research with the class. In order to reflect a variety of viewpoints and disciplines, guest artists and lecturers relevant to topics under discussion will be invited to speak with the class.	3

VSLR634	Professional Practice	This course is designed to develop effective professional strategies for successfully pursuing and navigating a sustained and meaningful artistic practice upon completion of the MFA LRVS program; taking into consideration the multitude of disciplines, interests and goals the program supports. We will consider protocols for professional etiquette, identify opportunities for achieving career objectives, and examine personal and social identities that comprise an individual's professional identity. Emphasis is placed on developing strong self-presentation skills to best represent your individual practice. This may include: portfolio development, submission materials, grant and exhibition proposals, working with galleries, residencies, fellowships, teaching positions, interviewing, public lectures, job search resources, calls for entry, taxes, websites, shipping, contracts, GDissions, and establishing a studio. The objective is to prepare students to identify, plan and pursue strategies for successful career development and professional accomplishments from which to offer a meaningful cultural contribution.	1.5

GRADUATE / Creative Writing Low-Residency

Crs#	Course Name	Description	Credit
WR501 WR511 WR601 WR611	Critical Studies	Graduate students explore critical race theory, feminist theory, post-colonial theory, and queer theory in relation to contemporary poetics and poetic methods. On-site. 4 crs.	1
WR502 WR512 WR602 WR612	Graduate Workshop	Graduate workshop is a mixed-genre seminar in which students critique one another's works under the mentorship of two accomplished writer-teachers. The workshop is writing intensive and generative while offering each graduate student one opportunity for submission of creative work. Creative works are discussed in a generous, critical atmosphere that encourages risk-taking in the creative process and respect for the writer. Time might be used for generative making sessions and discussions of assigned readings. The larger goal of graduate workshop is the deepening of community—to create and hold space for writers to share their work with others and to support the work of their fellow writers. 4 crs.	1
WR503 WR513 WR603 WR613	Studio, Symposium & Lecture	Graduate students attend lectures, panels, informal discussions, generative making sessions, and public readings and performances by faculty mentors, peers, and guest artists and writers. Topics include literary and theoretical texts, methods / materials / forms / processes, how artists encounter issues around social injustice and social change, and possibilities for professional engagement, e.g., publishing, promotion, social practice, writers in the schools. Graduate students are exposed to multiple ways in which writer-teachers cultivate their own creative practices. 12 crs	3
WR505	Creative Writing Studio 1	Graduate students generate rough drafts of original prose, cross-genre, poetry, and literary translations while further developing close reading and critical writing skills about literature, writing methods, and various aesthetic approaches to making. Through regularly scheduled packet exchanges, graduate students submit to faculty mentors creative work, critical responses to readings, a bibliography in MLA format of literary works and texts, and personal letters discussing their own work and their responses to the faculty mentor's feedback. The aim is for graduate students to generate as many rough pages as possible. Graduate students are encouraged to take risks, experiment, and make use of a variety of forms, genres, mediums, and materials. 7 crs.	7
WR515	Creative Writing Studio 2	Graduate students generate and exchange new creative and critical works along with letters with faculty mentor a total of five times. Graduate students also prepare for their First Year Review Presentations---to occur at Residency #3; this includes a polished artist's statement, complete bibliography (in MLA format) of books read during the first year of the program, a five-minute public reading of creative work, and a brief question-and-answer session with faculty mentors and students. 7 crs.	7
WR615	Creative Writing Studio 3	Graduate students develop and begin to revise a creative writing thesis draft along with letters. This is done in three exchanges with letters between students and faculty mentors. 3 crs.	3
WR620	Forms & Methods 1	Graduate students draft, revise, polish a 15-20-page essay on methods / materials / forms / process. This is done in three exchanges with letters between students and faculty mentors. 6 crs.	6
WR621	Forms & Methods 2	Graduate students prepare a 45-minute generative making session or a 30-minute talk on methods / materials / forms / process to be given at their final residency. Students draft and revise a teaching philosophy, cover letter, and teaching CV. This is done in two exchanges with letters between students and faculty mentors. 3 crs.	3
WR698	Creative Writing Thesis	Graduate students revise and polish creative writing thesis with the goal of creating a polished, publishable book-length manuscript of creative writing work. This is done in four exchanges with letters between students and faculty mentors a total five times. 6 crs.	6
WR699	Thesis Presentation	Graduate students in their final residency give a public reading of their creative work, defend their creative writing thesis, and facilitate a 45-minute generative making session or a thirty minute talk on methods / materials / forms / process. 5 crs.	5

Undergraduate Minors
Art and Ecology In this interdisciplinary minor, you'll develop a broad understanding of pressing ecological issues and their relationship to the social, political, cultural, and economic systems that impact the future of humanity, other species, and our shared planet. You'll understand how your own work as an artist or a designer can comment on, interact with, and impact the world. Course highlights: Ecology and Resilience, Environmental Science and Ecology, Art + Ecology: Global Culture and Ecology
Art History Art History examines the breadth of human creativity and considers how it influences and reflects the culture of its time. Power, myth, science, religion, philosophy and technique are all included. By delving into historical and contemporary artistic tenets and their social contexts, you'll gain a richer and more diverse visual arsenal which will sharpen your critical faculties and help you develop a deeper understanding of your own work. The Art History minor includes writing and research skills that prepare you for graduate study and professional careers. Course highlights: The Moving Image, Design History, Art of West Africa, Contemporary Topics, Theory and Culture of Art History
Ceramics In this minor, you can choose to focus on clay as a dynamic sculptural medium or material for fabricating wares and functional objects as you develop skills and techniques while developing a broader understanding of historical precedents and contemporary practices. You'll work in our dynamic Ceramics studio with seasoned pros to deepen your practice or expand outward into new pathways including entrepreneurial studio strategies. Course highlights: Moldmaking, Experimenting with Materials
Creative Writing Creative Writing at PNCA offers a unique opportunity to explore writing's relationship to contemporary art through interdisciplinary and hybrid forms. Through creative writing studio classes you'll explore experimental writing practices including the use of language as a visual medium and incorporate writing into visual work as well as those focused on contemporary forms of fiction, poetry, and script writing. Course highlights: Intro to Short Forms, Expanded Poetic Fields, Writing with Digital Media
Drawing Drawing is practiced by artists across genres and disciplines as a way to translate ideas to form, and use of drawing in its capacity as an exploratory medium is nearly universal. The Drawing minor offers the opportunity for sustained study and practice of drawing supporting both practices: drawing as exploration and drawing as form. Course highlights: The Figure, Advanced Drawing-Process and Idea, Drawing Seminar: Systems, Structures, and Strategies

Fashion

Fashion Design is a minor with a multi-disciplinary approach. We encourage students to delve into material exploration, garment construction, fabric manipulation and embellishment, silkscreen printing, pattern drafting and draping, textiles, concept development, and fashion sketching. The minor invites you to consider fashion as an embedded aspect of contemporary society while exploring the garment itself from many perspectives including costuming, wearable technology, textile design, soft sculpture, performance, and body augmentation. Course highlights: Printing on Fabric, Fashion Matters, Capsule Collection, Special Projects: Sewing Construction I

Game

Gaming in both analog and digital formats is one of the most relevant and pervasive forms of entertainment worldwide. Beyond its role in entertainment, social scientists and cultural anthropologists alike have identified gaming as a dominant form of finding and building community in contemporary society, using game culture as an expressive means of connecting with others. In this minor, you'll develop a general understanding of the philosophies, systems, and mechanics utilized in contemporary game and interactive design while becoming familiar with processes for research, experimentation, design, prototyping, and production. Course highlights: World Building, Character Design, Scripting, Interactive Aesthetics

Graphic Design

Design shapes the way we interact with the world around us. The same skills that designers use working with clients can also be used to “move” people—for more powerful communication, or to create social change. This minor is a way for you to gain fundamental graphic design techniques working with typography and visual systems for a range of technology. You will also gain core skills in ideation, critical evaluation, and revision that you can take into a broad range of careers. A minor in graphic design will give you a general understanding of the broad possibilities within design and help you learn to speak the language of design for fruitful collaboration. Course highlights: Signs + Symbols, Typography, Culture + Audience, Brand + Marketing

Addendum - PNCA - Teachout Course Description and Programs (2019-2020)

BACHELOR OF FINE ARTS

Through the Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) program, students can hone the skills and knowledge to develop themselves as artists and makers. Coursework is designed to build fluency in studio materials and processes, strong conceptual thinking, articulate communication, and refined creative practice and direction. Students pursue a major in one of the following areas: Book and Print; Ceramics; Cross Media; Digital Strategies; Drawing and Painting; Fibers; Functional Object; Image and Narrative; Metals; Photography; Sculptural Practice; or Wood. The program is designed to be completed in 4 years.

TRANSFER CREDITS

Student must complete at least 60 credits at OCAC, including all of the following courses: WR301, WR302, PP495, PP496, ST401, ST402, TH495, and TH498. Studio coursework accepted in transfer will normally be applied to studio electives: a maximum of 6 credits taken in transfer may be applied to the major.

Eligible transfer credits may be applied to the General Studies and Art History requirements as follows:

- Humanities (Writing): English (literature or college-level writing/composition), foreign language, non-studio music courses, philosophy, religion, or similar fields.
- Social Sciences: Courses in anthropology, psychology, sociology, economics, history, international studies, cultural geography, gender or ethnic studies, or similar fields.
- Natural Science and Mathematics: Courses in biology, chemistry, environmental science, geology, natural science, physics, physical geography, or similar fields; mathematics courses at the intermediate algebra level or higher (typically numbered 100 or above)
- General Studies Electives: Any college-level course in humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, or mathematics.
- Art History: up to 6 credits covering beginning-level general art history, including the prehistoric period through 20th century art; and up to 6 advanced-level credits in specialized art history at the 200-level or above. Additional art history courses may be applied to the general studies electives. Upon matriculation, students are required to complete all coursework at OCAC except as approved in an Outside Study Agreement.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

Students earning the BFA must have a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher in all coursework taken at OCAC and must complete a minimum of 40 upper-division credits (courses numbered 300 or above). Successful completion of a thesis project, paper, and exhibition is required to pass the second semester of Thesis Studio (TH498).

REQUIRED COURSEWORK – 120 cr.

PP101 Professional Skills Seminar (0 cr.) Waived for students with 30 or more transfer credits or have previously passed a college success course.

Art History

AH101 History of Art: Survey of Western Art I (3 cr.)

AH102 History of Art: Survey of Western Art II (3 cr.)

Intermediate Art History (AH courses at the 300-level; 6 cr.)

General Studies

Humanities (WR151 and WR 152; 6 cr.)

Natural Science and Mathematics (6 cr.)

Social Sciences (6 cr.)

General Studies electives (Humanities, Natural Science/Mathematics, Social Sciences, or Art History; 6 cr.)

MASTER OF FINE ARTS IN CRAFT

The MFA in Craft provides a broad and intensive environment for the understanding and application of advanced craft study. Highly skilled and motivated students work with a dedicated core faculty to develop the conceptual and expressive potential of their materials. This program emphasizes advanced creativity through the manipulation of materials and the dynamic exchange between disciplines and media. Required coursework emphasizes a strong engagement in advanced critical discourse, contextual understanding of work within the canon of craft, and a profound commitment to a vigorous creative practice. Successful graduates complete a thesis in their second year, which includes a body of work, an exhibition, a thesis paper, and public orals. The program is designed to be completed in 5 semesters.

TRANSFER CREDITS

A maximum of 6 transfer credits may be applied toward the degree.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

Students earning an MFA in Craft and Material Studies must have a cumulative GPA of 2.7 or higher in all coursework taken at OCAC. Successful completion of the required thesis project, paper, exhibition/presentation, and defense, as described in the MFA in Craft Thesis Handbook, is reflected on the transcript as a grade of Pass (P) in MFA699 Thesis Requirements. Students not completing these requirements by the last day of the semester in which their coursework is completed will be given a temporary grade of In Progress (IP) and will be allowed one additional semester to complete the requirements, after which the grade will revert to No Pass (NP).

REQUIRED COURSEWORK – 60 cr.

- MCP 545/546/547/645/646 Creative Practice (30 cr.)
- MIP 525/526/527/625/626 Integrated Practice (12 cr.)
- MCI 535/536/635/635 Critical Inquiry (12 cr.)
- Exploratory Focus (any graduate-level studio course; 6 cr.)

MASTER OF FINE ARTS IN CRAFT AND MATERIAL STUDIES

The MFA in Craft and Material Studies fosters the creative practice, materials knowledge, and academic achievement of independent, self-motivated artists, makers and designers. A major tenet of this program is its cross-media approach to pursuing the qualities and potential of materials and processes. Students are challenged to apply an expanded understanding of material literacy to their creative work in relation to individual interests and awareness of personal, social and cultural contexts. MFA in Craft and Material Studies students are an integral part of the existing MFA in Craft program, alternating between being immersed in the MFA in Craft curriculum on the OCAC campus and an autonomous, mentor based studio practice within their home community. The program is designed to be completed in 7 semesters.

TRANSFER CREDITS

A maximum of 6 transfer credits may be applied toward the degree.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

Students earning an MFA in Craft and Material Studies must have a cumulative GPA of 2.7 or higher in all coursework taken at OCAC. BFA Course Descriptions 400 level

PP409 Internship

Variable credit

Internship supplements the College's formal studio education and gives students an opportunity to gain work experience while getting an introduction to a specific art/design-related field or industry. May be used to meet the studio elective or general studies elective requirement.

Prerequisite: Completion of one year of degree or certificate program.

PP495 Professional Practices I

3 semester credits

Designed for advanced students who are ready to begin a career as a working artist, this course prepares students to function competently in the business area. Topics covered include: professionalism and goal setting; artist's portfolios; grants; galleries; teaching and other art employment; commissions; project proposal writing; pedestals and wall hanging systems; crating and shipping; insurance, copyrights, contracts, consignment, dispute resolution, forms of doing business and taxes. Offered Fall.

Prerequisite: Successful completion of pre-thesis review.

PP496 Professional Practices II

3 semester credits

Designed for advanced students who are ready to begin a career as a working artist, this course prepares students to function competently in the business area. Topics covered include: Artists' bios and artist statements; press release writing; show announcement and postcards; health hazards and insurance; photographing artwork; digital image management; introduction to web design; and how to set up a studio, et al. Prerequisites: BFA/CP students take this course concurrently with thesis classes; non-matriculated students must have a fine arts degree or three years work experience and consent of instructor Offered Spring.

Prerequisite: PP495.

SP401 Installation

3 semester credits

Installation art is site-specific work that is assembled or constructed for a particular space within a gallery or the landscape. Through a series of projects, students experience first hand the issues of site, scale, context, and meaning. Slide lectures, individual research, and visits to galleries and museums will familiarize the class with the variety of expression possible in this rich art form. This is a 400 level all-school class for CP/BFA students who have completed their 3rd year requirements or have equivalent experience, or permission of instructor. Required text to be determined. Not offered every year.

Prerequisite: Two years (12 semester credits) in student's area of study.

SS204 Nature and Culture

3 semester credits

Where does human nature leave off and the natural world begin, and how/where/why do we differentiate between them? The purpose of this class is to study and assess the relationship between human constructs (culture) and the facts of the nonhuman world. How much of what we believe about our relationship to the natural world is simply mythology? Can we accept our placement in the larger scheme of things? How have other cultures engaged with the natural world? These questions will be approached from various points of view: anthropological, historical, scientific, religious, and aesthetic. Offered spring semester, alternate years. Required text to be determined. Offered Spring.

Prerequisite: HU/SS201 and HU/SS202 or instructor consent.

SS206 The Primitive and the "Other" in Culture and Art

3 semester credits

An examination of the various meanings and uses of the concept of the Primitive, this course discusses its persistence as a paradigm in the modern world, and the role of art in that process. Utilizing primary anthropological, scientific, critical and historical texts, the students will begin with some of the earliest writings from antiquity and continue to discover the "Other" in the 21st century. Offered spring semester alternate years. Required text to be determined. Offered Spring.

Prerequisite: HU/SS201 and HU/SS202 or instructor consent.

ST401 Senior Seminar

3 semester credits

This course positions the fall semester of the thesis year as a transition from assignment-driven coursework to independently generated work. Team-taught by one academic and one studio faculty, the course is a seminar-studio hybrid, which emphasizes conceptualization and the exploration of process. Through a combination of directed readings, studio investigations and discussion, students will address aspects of conceptual and material processes culminating in the written and oral articulation of their thesis project in the form of a proposal and the completion of one component of that project.

Offered Fall.

Prerequisite: Successful completion of pre-thesis review.

ST402 Senior Seminar II

3 semester credits

The second semester of Senior Seminar is devoted to drafting, critiquing, editing and rewriting the thesis paper, and to creating, practicing and polishing the required public presentation of the thesis work. Students will also write artist statements to accompany their thesis artwork. They may also evaluate ongoing thesis work during group studio visits. Offered Spring.

Prerequisite: ST401.

TH495 Thesis Studio

3 semester credits

Students complete thesis work under the supervision of their advisor. Offered Fall.

Prerequisite: Successful completion of pre-thesis review.

TH498 Thesis Studio

6 semester credits

Students complete thesis work under the supervision of their advisor. Offered Spring.

Prerequisite: TH495.

Graduate course descriptions

MAT511/611 Critical Studies I/III

3 semester credits

Graduate Seminar-Critical Studies I-IV, examines diverse contemporary topics, encouraging students to address historical, theoretical, and cultural positions within an intellectual and artistic arena. Investigating creative impulses and artistic motivations from various competing positions—globalization, localism, colonialism, social cultures, politics, technology, gender and material studies—provides essential contextual understanding for students to deepen their studio practice. Whether online or on campus, the Graduate Seminar relies on an open critical exchange between students, faculty, and visiting artists, promoting diverse perspectives and generating research methodologies to create an informed critical writing practice.

Offered Summer.

Prerequisite: None.

MAT512/612 Critical Studies II/IV

1.5 semester credits

Same description as MAT511. Offered Spring.

Prerequisite: None.

MAT521 Research: Materials

3 semester credits

Broadens and deepens a student's knowledge through material investigation and exploration. During regular advising sessions with OCAC Faculty, students must create a methodology to enhance their knowledge of materials relevant to their practice and graduate inquiry, addressing historical, theoretical, and cultural positions within an intellectual and artistic scope. Whether online or on campus, the course relies on an open critical exchange between students, faculty, and visiting artists, promoting diverse perspectives and generating research methodologies to create an informed material practice.

Prerequisite: None.

MAT522/523/524 Research

3 semester credits

Prerequisite: None.

MAT531/532/533/631/632 Independent Studio I-V

Variable credit

Working closely with a mentor, students expand on their creative processes, interest, and goals seeking depth and resolve. The Lead Faculty at OCAC will guide students to invite and select appropriate mentors from within or outside of their local communities. Mentors include prominent professionals in their creative practice who can advise students in the development and articulation of their studio work throughout the semester. With the guidance of the Lead Faculty, students meet regularly online with peers, discussing creative progress and goals as a group. Online critiques with fellow graduate students and faculty creates an open platform to assess recognize generative directions of their work within the fields of contemporary art and craft practice. Variable credit 3 or 6.

Prerequisite: None.

MAT541/542/641 Intensive Studio I-III

Variable credit

In-resident studio practice on the OCAC campus offers students an immersive creative environment with dedicated studio space and access to all studio facilities, expanding upon students' creative inquiry and engaging other graduate cohorts. Utilizing campus facilities allows for a rigorous studio experience fueling explorations of ideas and making when students continue creating in their home community. During the first two weeks of the summer semester, taken in parallel with "Integrated Practice", students focus on experimental processes, discovering new materials or methods, while simultaneously developing and producing existing work. Students may choose to stay on campus continually developing their work for an additional two weeks. Variable credit 3 or 6.

MAT651/652/653 Thesis Studio I-III

Variable credit

Variable credit 3 or 6.

Prerequisite: MAT542

MCI535/536/635/636 Critical Inquiry

3 semester credits

Facilitated by the MFA Chair, this course provides a dynamic method of framing the intellectual context for students' studio practice. The history and theory of art, craft, and design will be explored with a nuanced view of the ways in which these fields overlap and mutually influence one another. Students will also consider the contemporary cultural, professional, and economic aspects of conducting a successful art practice. Issues of professional development including research, teaching, intellectual property and grant writing will also be addressed. Units of this course will be taught by a team of experts drawn from within the OCAC faculty as well as a broad array of visiting artists, designers, academics, critics and curators. Public lectures by some of these visitors will further enhance the college-wide critical discourse surrounding craft and its multivalent articulations. This course is open to all first- and second-year MFA students. Offered Fall.

MCP545/546/547/645/646 Creative Practice

Variable credit

Self-directed studio work comprises half of the student's required MFA credits, and it is expected to be an ongoing practice throughout their course of study, including the summer. Each graduate student will meet regularly with a committee to discuss and evaluate their progress. The committee consists of three members with at least one being an OCAC faculty member. Fall and spring semesters require enrollment in a minimum of six credits, and the summer session requires enrollment in a minimum of three credits. Variable credit: 3-9 cr. Offered Fall.

MFA699 Thesis Requirements

0 semester credits

Successful completion of the thesis project, paper, exhibition/presentation, and defense.

MID501 Integrated Research: Discovery Methods 3 semester credits

Inquiry-based discovery and collaboration are core to the Industrial Design profession. Integrated Research/Discovery Methods explores human-centered design, research practices and opportunity-framing. Fieldwork involves user interview protocols, empathic behavior, ideation techniques, deep dives, low fidelity prototyping for iterative design, persona profiles and testing methodologies to uncover the unmet user need. Faculty and visiting practitioners articulate mixed method lenses, such as service design, ethnography, ergonomics and behavioral psychology. Coursework addresses desirability, viability and feasibility of ideas through market, business and manufacturing filters. External field work with practitioners and client-partners culminates in the design and presentation of a narrative system to visually map research data for proposed discoveries.

MID502 Integrated Research 2: Sustainable Future 3 semester credits

MID511 Make Studio: Product Design 3 semester credits

The trans-disciplinary Make/Studio 1 introduces the College's product design studies as a "Laboratory for the Practice of Everyday Life". Project work explores intentionally speculative product designs through research, sketching, form, function, material and making. From collaborative "hack" to product design "shifts," themes include made-hybrids, legacy tools and domestic objects. Through acts of observation, deconstruction and reconstruction, new objects emerge as positive responses to the human experience. Each module results in a product outcome and incorporates a documented process with sketches, research, design logic, models and prototype. This first semester course exposes students to the College's material practices and the emotive, evocative and provocative trajectories for design through a participatory, optimistic dialogue with faculty and creative practitioners. Consideration is given to the public display and public feedback of project work.

MID512 Make Studio: Furniture 3 semester credits

We live in an age where social interactions, pervasive technology and nomadic lifestyles offer new horizons for furniture design. Design plays a fundamental role in examining these emergent trends applying research in human behavior to the performance of furniture for public and private spaces. The course reinforces the graduate student's research practices and introduces furniture as a space-making opportunity for sharing, connecting, working, intimacy, privacy and shelter. Avant-garde movements are explored and discussed to understand the expressive force of furniture designed by architects, craftspeople and industrial designers in response to social, cultural and political movements. Sketching, scale models and full-size mock-ups activate idea creation. Research includes observation of flow patterns, diurnal cycles and emergent lifestyles to support the creative trajectory. Furniture platforms are evaluated based on modularity, efficiency (sustainability), materials, product engineering, mechanical connections and methods of re-assembly.

MID513 Make Studio: Ambient Design 3 semester credits

MID521 Semantics + Semiotics 3 semester credits

Humans perceive the world through signs and meaning. Semantics+Semiotics is the Chair's critical theory seminar exploring the encoding of product with associative, primitive or cognitive characteristics. Exercises delve into human-object and human-machine interactions enlisting cognitive methods (ex. color, form), stimulus (ex. sound, vibration, light, scent, temperature), memory, metaphor and meaning. Influential design movements reveal the socio-cultural, economic, ecological and political influences that portend changing signs and influence meaning. In a contemporary world where screen displays are vehicles for new symbols, such as emojis, @ and swipe-scroll gestures, shorthand linguistics underscore speed and universality. Through lectures with visiting professionals, reading and media, classwork surveys the behavior, symbol, icon and index challenging the creator's self-perception. Design exercises involve sketching, graphic design, iconography and 3-D design. Fieldwork documents real-world product and package performance for semantic+semiotic study. Final project is the creation of a language of physical, tactile objects with cognitive triggers (workshop in mold-making will support the trajectory). Comparative testing with users is conducted to inform refinements.

MID522 Jump 3 semester credits

Jump is an intensive exploration at the intersection of business and sustainable strategies for design innovation. Students begin by exploring the principles of cradle-to-cradle (C2C) design. Applying systems thinking, they evaluate and map a product's global footprint to critically assess resource consumption. Field trips to innovative PDX upcycling, recycling and supply chain businesses deepen the understanding of the entrepreneur's sustainable practices. In subsequent modules, students pull from their own waste stream to reimagine a material's viable future and practice a behavioral change to meet one zero-waste goal. Finally, the class visits a Northwest super-green manufacturer to actively engage with business leadership. Students learn the scope of this sustainable business, then apply process mapping to build their own green business plan. Student teams address brand, market, idea creation, financial performance, IP and explore the full stages of sustainable C2C product development. Students research and deliver a business plan to 'pitch' to external professionals for critical evaluation.

MID523 The Future of Thing-ness 3 semester credits

MID524 Sustainable Futures 3 semester credits

MID531 Digital Studio 1 3 semester credits

The digital domain is bedrock to the Industrial Designer's practice as realized in Digital/Studio 1. From 3D printing to introductory exercises in Arduino, coursework builds digital making skills and creative exploration at the intersection of the virtual and physical worlds. Material expression and performance are open to biobased and organic matter, smart textiles (Jacquard Loom), interactive control/product gestures, laser cutting/engraving, 3D scanning and 3D printing in synthetics or clay. Translating hand-drawn sketches into software files for machine output is required. Project work seeks to exploit the transformative qualities of materials, structures (part + assembled part), and ideas to create responsive objects that enrich the human experience.

MID541 Work Life Studio 3 semester credits

Giving voice to a personal body of work, Worklife/Studio 1 serves as the proving ground for focused, self-directed research and exploration of the Thesis topic. Through critical dialogue with visiting practitioners, mentors and faculty, the student applies reasoning, assesses contextual landscapes and cultivates areas of interest. Research is documented in the design journal, videographies and sketchbooks, as well as material methods of choice. Output of a thoughtful progression is required each week with a determined focus on the selection of a research direction. The studio culminates in a broad review of the graduate student's critical inquiry for debate with visiting practitioners, Thesis Advisor and Chair.

MID532 Digital Studio 2 3 semester credits

The Digital Studio offers new expressive opportunities for the design student by building skills at the intersection of materials and technology. From laser cutting to 3D printing and multimedia software to Arduino circuits, explorations address the communicative power of form, texture, image and interaction to awaken our senses and enhance our lives. Material studies may include bio-based and organic matter, smart textiles (Jacquard Loom), interactive control/product gestures, surface textures, 3D scanning and mapping software. Project work seeks to exploit the transformative qualities of materials and ideas to create responsive objects that enrich the human experience. Prerequisite: None.

MID551 Internship: Into the Real World Variable credit

Industrial Design internships and fieldwork allow students to bring their own insight, ideas, and energy to the host organization while gaining valuable professional experience, self-confidence, and a broader understanding of their chosen field. The internship experience provides a platform where students test their skills, knowledge and creative output in the context of the professional sphere. Internships are scheduled as part-time, on-site engagements that take place during the course of the semester. Job responsibilities, work hours, educational value, and measurable means of evaluation are clearly outlined and agreed to by the employer, the student, and the Chair prior to any work being completed. While the employer's internship champion submits regular feedback/reports about the student to the Chair, the student submits a weekly journal outlining measurable learning and progress toward their goals.

MIP525/526/527/625/626 Integrated Practice

3 semester credits

Led by visiting artists and lecturers, this course is a platform for vigorous discourse on relevant contemporary topics within the context of critiquing the work and practice of each participating student. The course is focused on assisting students in understanding and articulating the substance of their work, particularly formulating a basis of evaluation of their work and the work of others. This seminar provides a structure for gaining cultural and artistic perspectives, contemplating the dynamic issues of craft and locating students' creative endeavors within a framework of current and historical issues. Augmenting these course objectives will be discussions prompted by various outside academic and professional guests, assigned readings, and off-campus trips to exhibitions. Offered Fall.
